Republican Chiefs Kept Advised on U. S. Policy

Marshall Asserts France, Britain Told Of Moves in Berlin Throughout Crisis

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Republican leaders are being kept in constant touch with all developments in the foreign situation, Secretary of State Marshall said yesterday.

Both Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee are being consulted at all times, he said.

This country is also in constant communication with both Great Britain and France on all developments in the Berlin crisis, he added.

Dulles Misses Meetings

Because of his recent absence from his offices—he has been taking a physical checkup at Walter Reed Hospital—Marshall said John Foster Dulles, Gov. Thomas W. Dewey's foreign policy adviser, has not been included in recent meetings. Dulles, he added, has been busy at the Republican National Convention.

Eaton, Foreign Affairs Committee head, confirmed that he and Senator Vandenberg have been consulted at every step of the development of U. S. policy in Berlin.

"I am in absolute accord with Secretary Marshall's position," Eaton said. "We propose to stay in Berlin. Period."

If the United States should withdraw, Eaton added, it "would remove any confidence in us as world leaders."

Calamity Held Possible

"It would be more of a fateful calamity to mankind than Munich was. It would be a signal to the world that we intend to turn over everything to the dictatorship of Russia."

Close consideration has been given recently, Marshall said, to the following questions in international relations:

1. The State Department has been following developments in the Communist Cominform's quarrel with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. Marshall refused further

More Food Being Flown Into Berlin Than Needed

Berlin, July 2 (U.P.).—Hundreds of American and British planes broke the back of Russia's Berlin blockade today, flying more food into western sectors of the city than the people are eating.

An American spokesman said that, by July 15, Anglo-American air armadas will have flown in enough food to maintain the Berlin ration for the entire month of July.

The British Exchange Telegraph said in a dispatch from here that Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British military governor in Germany, has sent a letter to Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian military governor, asking him to meet for a discussion of restoring communications.

The Anglo-American "skyway grocery delivery" went over the top amid reports that the Soviet land blockade of Berlin is beginning to pinch the Soviets themselves. The Russians reportedly need flour and drugs, and hard coal to operate the big Klingenberg power plant.

Focus Attention on Fuel

With the food situation in hand, the western Allies switched their attention to the problem of supplying their sectors of Berlin with fuel. The airlift service may be handling such articles as coal and petroleum by mid-July. One experimental flight already has been made.

Air Force authorities plan to fly the big planes in at tree-top level and, to speed up operations, have them dump their hard cargoes over specially designated fields without landing.

British officials are even considering using the huge Olympic

He's the father of six children, he was elected Governor by both Democrats and Republicans, and he may become our next Vice President—but what about Warren's views on government? What does he stand for?

Guard Asks Exempt Status On Transfers

Selective Service Protection Sought For Draft Age Youths

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

National Guard leaders throughout the country have asked selective service chiefs to protect the exempted status of Guardsmen of draft age who move temporarily or permanently to another locality.

Selective service officials said yesterday that Guardsmen have asked that new draft regulations now in preparation authorize local boards to continue the exemption of young men who want to attend college away from home or move to another locality to accept a job. In such cases, the men would have to transfer to another National Guard unit.

Meanwhile, a spokesman of the Office of Defense said that top officials and some units of the Navy Department will move from the Navy Building in Constitution Avenue to the Pentagon about August 1.

Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan and Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, will be the first to make the shift, it was said. The transfer will put all of the Nation's military chiefs together in one area of the huge building across the river.

Along with this physical merger of the armed services, another action toward closer unification was disclosed yesterday. Defense Secretary James Forrestal announced the appointment of an over-all public information chief for the national military establishment.

Harold B. Hinton, a member of the Washington Bureau of the New York Times and an Air Force colonel during World War II, was named to the new post.

Officials said parts of the Office of Naval Operations and Office of the Secretary will be the first Navy units to make the move to the Pentagon. Secretary Sulli-

Hour-Long Noon Procession

Parade and Truman Talk Start Monument Celebration Today

An hour-long parade and an address by the President will launch the city's three-day celebration of the 100th anniversary of the laying of the Washington Monument cornerstone.

The parade up Pennsylvania ave. nw. is scheduled to swing out of 4th st. nw. at noon. From Pennsylvania ave., the parade will turn south on 15th st. and thence to the Monument Grounds for commemoration ceremonies and the President's talk.

The President's speech—set for 10 or 15 minutes—will be broadcast over all network stations, beginning at 2 p. m.

Fair Weather Promised

The Weather Bureau promised "fair and warmer" weather for most of the Independence Day weekend, words that were expected to stimulate attendance at the scheduled events and the usual holiday travel in and out of town. "Scattered thunder showers" were forecast as likely Monday.

Holiday travel to nearby resorts, New York and New England was reported heavy, with motor travel rated "terrific" by the American Automobile Association. Railroads reported heavy demand for accommodations to Washington also.

The parade will be led by Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, the grand marshal.

The parade of 60 military, veteran, patriotic and civic marching units, 12 bands, 14 commercial floats, and 24 pieces of military and naval equipment, will be reviewed by the President.

The reviewing stand will be on the northeast slope of the grounds, about 300 feet from Constitution ave. The Marine Band will be stationed there throughout the course of the parade.

The first and second divisions, led, respectively, by Col. James V. Cole and Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, will contain military and National Guard units.

The D. C. Air National Guard announced yesterday that 16 to 20 of its F-47 fighters would form over the parade about 12:30 p. m., spelling out "100" in honor of the Washington Monument's birthday. Air units of Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps will also participate, making three flights over the seating area at the Monument Grounds.

The third division, consisting of veterans' and patriotic units, will be headed by Maj. Ernest J. St. Jacques. The Metropolitan Police Boys Club band will set the pace for units of newspaper boys and youth delegates from cities bearing the name of Washington.

In the fourth division will be the floats entered by civic and business groups.

Cup Offered As Prize

A sterling silver cup is offered as a prize for the best float, as judged by Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young, President E. D. Merrill of the Capital Transit Co. and Ben Strouse, general manager of Station WWDC.

The Capital Transit Co. announced that streetcar and bus lines that ordinarily pass over or cross the Pennsylvania ave. section of the parade route, will be rerouted during the Centennial parade, from noon until about 1 p. m. Detailed information may be obtained by phoning the company at MI. 6363.

Tickets for seats on the grounds, costing $1 including tax, are on sale at leading hotels, Peoples Drug Stores, a trailer at 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. and other points. There will be no admission charge to enter the grounds.

At the conclusion of the parade, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, first vice president of the Washington National Monument Society, will be introduced by Leon Chatelain, jr., chairman of the Washington Monument Centennial Committee and president of the Board of Trade.

After an invocation by the Rev. C. Leslie Glenn, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 3d will speak on the history of the Monument. Col. Edwin S. Bettelheim, Deputy Grand Master of the Masons, will speak and lead a reenactment of the Masonic cornerstone laying ceremonies of July 4, 1848.

Services in Churches

On Sunday, Independence Day and the Monument anniversary will be observed in religious services in Washington churches, in response to a request by the Committee on Religious Life in the Nation's Capital, made to clergymen of all creeds.

The first of the National Symphony Orchestra's summer concert series at the Watergate will be

7 Ambulance Loads Taken To Hospital

Accident Caused By Truck Backing Out Into Road

An Arlington man was killed and more than 20 persons injured or shaken up last night when a Trailways bus and a car collided on Route 211 near Bull Run, Va. The accident scene is about 25 miles from Washington.

Apparently killed instantly in the crash was Cornelius W. Butler, 44, of 3320 N. 23d rd., Arlington, driver of the auto.

About seven ambulance loads of injured were taken to Arlington Hospital. There were 23 persons at the hospital at midnight, six of Washington and nearby Virginia.

State Police at the scene reported that Butler, married and the father of two children, was alone in the car which crashed headlong into the bus.

Following closely behind him in a second car were his brother-in-law, C. J. Compton, 26, of the same Arlington address, and Robert, Payne, 48, of 313 C st. ne. Payne was driving the second car.

The second car was also sideswiped by the bus. Payne was reported to have suffered three fractured ribs.

The three men were returning to Arlington after spending the day working on the farm of Frank Diggs near Manassas.

Police said the driver of the Trailways bus, which was westbound on Route 211, was H. D. Allen, 34, of 115 New York ave. nw. Allen, a driver with the company for five years, said the bus had left Washington at about 7:15 p. m.

Allen told police that a truck backed out of a runway on the right side of the highway and he was forced to swerve his bus to miss it. In so doing, Allen said he drove his bus into Butler's car coming in the opposite direction.

Allen suffered head lacerations and lacerations and bruises of the right leg and right arm.

The car was smashed to a metal pulp and the front end of the bus was badly damaged.

One of the most seriously injured of the bus passengers was Miss Zula Mae Creasey, 21, of 256 Park ave., Takoma Park, Md. She suffered injuries to both legs and

Slavs Urge Stalin to Get Behind Tito

Cominform Rebuke Asked by 15,000; Note Sent Albania On 'Offensive' Acts

Belgrade, July 2 (AP).—Yugoslav Communists went on the offensve today and urged Premier Stalin of Russia to rebuke the Cominform for its political attack on Marshal Tito.

The Belgrade Radio broadcast the text of a Yugoslav note to Albania demanding that the Albanian government halt "gross and offensive acts" against Yugoslavia.

Unless offenders are taken to task, investigated and the Yugoslav government informed of the results, and such acts prevented, the note threatened, "the Yugoslav government do not consider themselves responsible for the consequences which might result."

The note repeated charges previously made in Belgrade broadcasts that Marshal Tito's pictures had been removed from public places in Albania, sales of Yugoslav newspapers prevented, and a Yugoslav bookshop closed.

Two other sharp protest notes which Tanjug, the Yugoslav news agency, said had been handed to the Albanian Embassy in Belgrade, accused Albania of cancelling all exports to Yugoslavia and stopping construction and survey work on railway lines to the Yugoslav border.

Mass Meeting Wires Stalin

Fifteen thousand party members in a Belgrade mass meeting by resolution sent a telegram in which they appealed directly to Stalin to erase the "false accusations" made by the Cominform.

The Cominform, nine-nation Communist Information Bureau of which Yugoslavia is a member, has accused Tito and the Yugoslav Communist Central Committee of being too nationalistic, entertaining grandiose ambitions, betraying the precepts of Marxism and being anti-Russian.

The Yugoslav committee slapped back, declaring the Cominform charges were lies and slander.

In effect, the Yugoslav mass meeting asked Stalin to rebuke one of the three or four most influential men in the Soviet Union, A. A. Zhdanov, chief Russian instigator of Cominform policies.

Hail 'Big Friend' Stalin

The central committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union already has indorsed the Cominform's action. Communists have emphasized, however, that the Cominform is an organization of parties and not of governments. As head of the Soviet government, Stalin presumably could express a view different from that of the party.

The telegram to Stalin concluded:

"Long live your teacher of love towards the Soviet Union, Comrade Tito, and long live our big friend, Stalin."

The regular monthly bulletin of the Cominform was issued in Bucharest, Romania, indicating the Cominform headquarters was being shifted from Belgrade.

Yugoslavia Town Reported Bombed

Second Army Corps Headquarters, Kozane, Greece, July 2 (AP).—An authoritative military source said an unidentified plane had bombed Bitolj, Yugoslavia, last night.

Bitolj is about 10 miles from the Greek frontier.

The same source said 13 armed Yugoslav civilians surrendered today to a Greek frontier post northwest of Phlorina. There were no indications whether the Yugoslavs were pro or anti-Tito.

Va. Delegates Ordered to Work For Eisenhower

James Roosevelt, Chicago Boss Arvey Call Stop-Truman Caucus for July 10

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Stop Truman activity reached a preconvention peak yesterday as top party leaders in key States called a caucus to agree on an "open" convention.

The irregular meeting, expected to turn into a "Draft Eisenhower" rally, was set for July 10, two days before the Democratic convention gets under way.

Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago's Democratic boss, disclosed plans for the caucus. He said he was invited to attend by James Roosevelt, chairman of the California Democratic State committee and son of the late President.

In other quarters it was learned that Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York and prominent political figures in other Northern and Southern States, have been invited to join in the caucus call.

Virginia meanwhile joined Georgia and some previously committed Southern States in flat indorsement of General Eisenhower.

Georgia Democrats called on President Truman to step out of the race and instructed its full delegation for "Ike."

Virginia Democrats in convention gave the Old Dominion delegation the same directions.

Anti-Truman Democrats in other States, looking for a place to light in Philadelphia, meanwhile burned up transcontinental wires in an eleventh-hour effort to agree on strategy.

One Southern Democratic Senator's office said it had calls from Democratic figures in eight States outside the deep South.

But so far as could be deter-

Closed Shop Ban Asked in Captive Mines

A partial tie-up of the Nation's coal mines was threatened yesterday when the United States Steel Corp. and 18 other steel companies accused John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of unfair labor practices.

The steel companies appealed to the National Labor Relations Board to outlaw the "closed shop" provisions in the new coal workers contract.

The request followed the refusal of the owners of "captive mines" to sign the recent labor agreement with Lewis negotiated by other coal operators.

(A captive mine produces coal used exclusively by the industry or corporation which owns the mine.)

The new contract which Lewis negotiated last week became effective in all other mines Thursday. It called for an increase of $1 a day for each miner and a pension royalty payment of 20 cents a ton on all coal mined for the UMW retirement and disability fund.

The steel company lawyers pointed out in their appeal to NLRB that the Taft-Hartley labor law permits a union shop, as called for in the agreement, only if a majority of the workers vote for it in an election supervised by NLRB.

No such election has been held by UMW. The law says that no such election can be held unless the union officers sign an oath that they are not Communists. Lewis refuses to sign such an oath, although he has left no doubt that he hates Communists and communism.

If the steel companies' charges are upheld by NLRB Counsel Robert Denham, he can ask the courts for an order forbidding

Instructed to Fight Civil Rights Man; Convention May Reconvene Later

By Richard Lyons
Post Reporter

Richmond, Va., July 2.—Delegates to the Virginia Democratic Convention here voted enthusiastically today to instruct their national delegates to "do their utmost" to secure nomination of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In the same vote, they also approved a lengthy declaration of policy blasting President Truman for his civil rights program, and instructing the national delegates to oppose "any individual who espouses the doctrines enunciated in the so-called Federal civil rights program."

Simultaneously, they approved recommendation of their resolutions committee authorizing reconvening of the State convention after selection of candidates by the national party convention, if deemed necessary. Legislation permitting such protest action was enacted this year in Governor Tuck's "anti-Truman bill."

Tuck Reports Resolution

The Tuck bill provides that the State convention may put its own slate of electors on the ballot if dissatisfied with the actions and candidates of the national convention.

Governor Tuck himself reported out the resolutions committee recommendations which the more than 1000 State delegates gave voice vote approval. The vote followed a morning and afternoon of both deliberate and spontaneous efforts to draft Eisenhower.

After the vote, many delegates rose to their feet to protest consolidation of all resolutions and the party's declaration of policy in one vote.

But they made it plain, they were not protesting the move to draft the former Army general. Most centered their attack on inclusion of the resolution to authorize reconvening of the State convention after national convention action by two-thirds vote of the State Central Democratic Committee.

Reconsideration Ruled Out

The chair, however, ruled the resolutions had been adopted as presented for vote, and could not be reconsidered.

The new State party chairman, G. Alvin Massenburg, said the next step in the fight against President Truman was up to the Democratic National Convention, set for July 12 in Philadelphia.

Massenburg said he was certain there is enough anti-Truman strength in the State Central Committee to call the State convention back in session if the President is nominated at the Philadelphia conclave.

Then, Massenburg said, the State convention could decide whether to stay in the party fold or name its own presidential candidate.

Yesterday's convention was adjourned shortly before 7 p. m., after selection of the State party's 26-voting strength delegation for the National Democratic Convention. These included Thomas J. Broyhill of Arlington, Va., named as a delegate-at-large.

The early evening vote was preceded by attempts of many delegates to promote an Eisenhower-Senator Harry F. Byrd ticket, a move that lost momentum when such a resolution was tabled by vote in the Eighth Congressional District caucus, in the morning.

Byrd Pushes Ike Movement

In the afternoon, the resolution, omitting Senator Byrd's name, was sent to the resolutions committee of the State convention for consideration. It was drafted by a subcommittee headed by Gov. William M. Tuck.

Senator Byrd, in his address as senior Senator, pressed for the draft-Eisenhower movement before the full convention.

"I hope Virginia democracy will cast its vote for Eisenhower to lead the party to victory," he declared. "The name of Eisenhower resounds in Democratic councils today."

Senator Byrd attacked President Truman frequently in his talk, especially in reference to the President's civil rights program, which Senator Byrd termed "the

Probe Gets Results

Judge Gives 3 in Alexandria 4 Days to Clean Up—Or Else

Three persons charged with violating Alexandria's health code were given four days yesterday in which to clean up their homes to comply with "anti-filth" provisions of the ordinance.

After hearing complaints of two health department officials, Police Court Judge James R. Duncan continued the trio's hearing until next Tuesday morning to give them a chance to comply with the law. Unless a satisfactory report is submitted then, he warned, all will be subjected to $100 fines, the maximum penalty for first offenders.

The defendants, arrested on complaints filed by Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer, and Sanitary Inspector Keith Wade, are Cleveland Mason, 63, of 2 Bernard st., and Charles Groggs, 59, and Mrs. Mary Jeffries, 40, both of 214 Queen st.

Mason was charged with permitting "debris and foul odors" around his home, while Groggs and Mrs. Jeffries were accused of maintaining a "filthy house and yard."

They were arrested on warrants sworn out Thursday, a day after the Virginia State Health Department began a scheduled investigation of the city's health program.

The probe, requested by the city council, arose from a pamphlet published by the League of Women Voters in which it cited unsanitary conditions throughout the city and assailed both the city council and the health department for alleged deficiencies in the health program.

The actual survey is expected to start next week and, according to Dr. Neale, will require about six weeks to complete.

Balkan Troubles Come in Wave At Swim Hint in Swank Resort

Newport, R. I., July 2 (AP).—Balkan troubles broke out today in this swank summer resort.

After three days in Newport, Mrs. Mihai Ralea, wife of the Romanian Minister to the United States, blasted rulers of exclusive Bailey's Beach as:

"Not only impolite, but virtually uncivilized."

They replied calmly, "It's all a misunderstanding."

The Ralea's pretty daughter, Catinca, 19, wanted to know a good place to swim.

R. Beverley Corbin, president of Bailey's Beach, got a call from the hotel manager and explained the procedure—admission only by invitation.

A report spread that the Romanians had been snubbed.

Indignantly, Mrs. Ralea told newsmen:

Somebody whispered "Communism."

"What difference does it make what we are," said the diplomat's wife. "I'm not a Communist but I certainly won't say whether my husband is or is not a Communist to please people. But he certainly doesn't belong to any group like those at Bailey's Beach, anyway."

"My husband is an intellectual," she said. "He was a professor of philosophy in Bucharest. Why it would be more of a punishment than anything even to associate with those people."

Reds Ignore Plea To Return Ships

Russia has been holding off for two years on an American request for return of United States naval and commercial vessels lend-leased during the war, Secretary of State Marshall revealed yesterday.

The vessels include three icebreakers, 23 frigates and 87 merchant ships.

Marshall made his statement to newsmen in answer to a question about a new formula proposed by Russia for settlement of her 11 billion-dollar lend-lease account with the United States.

Marshall told newsmen that "this Government has requested the immediate return" of the 31 Navy ships. The request, he said, was made "some time ago." State Department officails later said it was made last January.

Interest Payment Missed

Russia after the war received 225 million dollars' worth of lend-lease goods under a straight sales agreement. These goods had been made to meet Russian specifications, and were "in transit" when the war ended.

An interest payment of four million dollars on that debt was due yesterday. No payment had been made last night.

Marshall also revealed that this country had asked Russia to pay American firms "for the use of their patented processes supplied to the Soviet government under lend-lease during the war."

When the request for settlement of lend-lease accounts was made months ago, the Soviet Ambassador requested time to consult Moscow.

Settlement Offer Made

After his arrival several days ago from Russia, Ambassador Alexander S. Panyuskin offered a settlement. T heterms have not been made public.

Russia is the only major lend-lease recipient that has not settled its bill since the war. Negotiations with Russia began more than a year ago, Marshall revealed, on April 30, 1947.

"In general," Marshall said, "the United States asks no payment for any lend-lease aid represented by articles or service expended in the common war effort prior to V-J Day, September 2, 1945.

"The Soviet government is being asked to pay the reasonable value as of V-J Day of civilian-type lend-lease articles which remained in existence on that day; such articles being of a kind which would have a peacetime utility to the Soviet economy."

Senate Gives Gasperi Vote Of Confidence

Rome, July 2 (U.P.).—Premier Alcide de Gasperi won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the Senate today while three million Communist-led workers struck for 12 hours in an attempt to discredit his government.

Workers from the Alps to Sicily walked off their jobs in the first of a new series of nation-wide stoppages plotted to harass De Gasperi's anti-Communist regime.

While industry was jerking to a halt, the Senate gave De Gasperi a 184-to-67 vote of confidence, which ended debate on De Gasperi's five-year program to rebuild Italy with European Recovery Program aid and a foreign policy dedicated to collaboration with the Western powers.

The vote came 16 days after the Government won a 346 to 167 vote of confidence from the House of Deputies.

The Nation-wide strike was scheduled to end at midnight. It was based on an attempt to halt large-scale economy firings and to win general wage increases and doubled family allowances.

Industrial workers spearheaded the walkout. Nearly every plant and factory was closed. Transportation workers walked out at the rush hour tonight. Movies, theaters and restaurants were closed in some areas.

Chemical workers will lead a similar demonstration Tuesday. The Nation's electric power industry workers will strike for three hours on Wednesday and steelworkers will go out Thursday.

Greeks Storm Rebel Peak

By Edgar Clark

With the First Mountain Division in Northern Greece, July 1 (Delayed) (U.P.).—The first sign of a break in the last-ditch guerilla defense of the northern mountains was seen today as troops of the First Division surged ahead for the second day.

The division stormed the heights of 4400-foot Mt. Lymeria today, securing its right flank after yesterday's victory at Mt. Prophet Elijah, key to guerilla Gen. Markos Vafiades' eastern front.

Later in the day, the Greek forces fought across fro mthe captured peak to the adjoining summit of Mt. Jami.

Prisoners taken in the attack on Lymeria said their previous orders to fight to the last man had been countermanded. New orders withdrew most of the defenders, leaving a few men behind to delay the government advance, the prisoners said.

Most Greek leaders and their U. S. advisers believed the new tactics meant the guerillas were withdrawing to prepared positions deeper in the Grammos range.

6 Die in 24 Hours In Malaya Terror; 2 Months' Toll 50

Singapore, July 2 (AP).—Malaya's mounting wave of violence, allegedly Communist - inspired, claimed six lives in the past 24 hours, bringing to more than 50 the deaths in the past two months.

A government communique issued in Kuala Lumfur said uniformed Chinese guerillas killed a Chinese in Pahang State, two others on a Johore rubber estate, and a Chinese man, woman and child at Kulai, north of Singapore.

The Malayan Federation government invoked a mandatory death penalty for owning or controlling unlicensed firearms.

Violence was reported from widely separated areas in Malaya, police communiques said. A gunman shot a British subject and escaped in Johore June 30, a delayed announcement said.

Without such authorization, members of Guard units would lose their exemption if they left town to attend college, accept a job or for other reason. There is no way that a man can legally transfer from a National Guard unit in Maryland to say one in Virginia or California—as they are State organizations.

However, it would be possible for a man who makes a permanent move from one locality to another to be discharged from one unit and enroll in another in his new home town. Guard leaders are hopeful that it can be arranged so that such action would continue the man's draft exemption.

In the case of a temporary move, such as to attend college, the National Guard is working out a system so that a man would remain a member of his hometown unit, but attend drills with a Guard unit near his temporary abode.

Such a practice, also would have to be authorized by Selective Service regulations.

Permanent transfers, if they can be worked out, would depend upon vacancies existing in a unit near a man's new home. But Guard officials estimated yesterday that there are still about 20,000 vacancies despite earlier reports that the organization had gone over the top in last week's heavy recruiting campaign.

When President Truman signed the draft bill rather unexpectedly a week ago, thus cutting off any more draft-exempt enrollments, officials estimated that the Guard had gone well beyond its 341,000 ceiling. But in many areas, it was said yesterday, large numbers of applicants failed to get in under the wire because of lack of facilities to examine and swear in the men in time.

Meanwhile, the Army asked employers to give employes who are members of the Reserve leaves of absence for active duty or military training. A Labor Department announcement at the same time held that reservists who accept assignments to extended active duty are entitled to the benefits of the reemployment provisions of the Draft Act.

In another defense development, Representative Keating (R., N. Y.) complained that the armed forces are refusing to accept one-year enlistments of 18-year-olds. The draft act permits 161,000 of the 18-year olders to take a year's training, transfer to the reserve and be exempt from draft.

Keating sent a wire of protest to Secretary Royall, saying the delay in accepting the 12 months enlistments was unfair to men becoming 19 this summer. Royall replied, saying that the armed forces have no authority to take in such youths until the Bureau of the Budget approves expenditure of funds for their pay, subsistence, housing, etc.

In appointing Hinton as his new chief public information officer, Forrestal said he will develop an over-all public relations policy for the armed forces and coordinate public information matters for the services.

Hinton, who is taking a leave of absence from the New York Times, will have direct control of public relations for the Office of the Secretary of Defense, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Munitions Board, Research and Development Board and other such agencies. The existing public information offices of the Army, Navy and Air Force will not be affected, it was said, except that a central press room will be opened in the Pentagon, directly under Forrestal's office.

The existing press rooms will be closed, and members of the Army, Navy and Air Force public relations forces will be assigned to the new defense press room.

Capt. Robert W. Barry, Forrestal's public relations chief, who proposed the charge, will continue to handle the defense chiefs public relations.

Hinton was a fighter pilot in World War I and an air combat intelligence officer with the Twelfth Air Force in North Africa and Italy in World War II. He formerly was employed on the old Washington Times and has been with the New York Times since 1923.

Bernadotte Flying to Cairo For Peace Parley With Arabs

Rhodes, July 2 (AP).—U. N. mediator Count Folke Bernadotte said today Arab leaders "are prepared to talk with me" on his suggestions for Palestine peace and that he is flying to Cairo Saturday to get their views.

Authoritative Arab sources in Cairo have been quoted as saying the Arabs would reject the count's proposals on the grounds they are based on recognition of a Jewish state.

The count said he has received no official reaction to his proposals as yet, with the four-week Palestine truce due to expire a week from today. He said, however, he would get the Arab and Jewish replies before the truce period ends.

Made No Requests

He replied, "I have made no requests" when asked if he had sought an extension of the truce. "Before I ask I must hear the replies to my suggestions."

Just back from a trip to Jerusalem, the mediator said it had been decided to demilitarize the Mount Scopus area on which are situated the Hebrew University and American-supported Hadassah Hospital. The two institutions were shelled by Arabs repeatedly during the Arab Legion attack on the Old City of Jerusalem. A band of armed Jews held the Scopus area at the rear of the Arabs throughout the fighting.

Lie Hopes to Extend Palestine Armistice

Lake Success, N. Y., July 2 (U.P.).—United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie said today he hoped Israel and the Arab states would be willing to extend their Palestine armistice, now scheduled to expire in one week.

Lie told a news conference the U. N. was planning on the possibility that it would be involved in negotiations on the Holy Land's future for at least another three months.

There was virtually no hope that Count Folke Bernadotte would be able to produce a miracle settlement of the whole Palestine problem in the next seven days. Both sides were believed certain to turn down the tentative blueprint Bernadotte has sent them.

It was announced that Bernadotte's proposals would be made public at 2 p. m. Sunday (EDT.).

Lie disclosed he had set aside one million dollars of U. N. funds as the budget for the Palestine mediation work over a four-month period starting early in June when Bernadotte stepped into the Holy Land picture.

Red Party Lags In Finnish Returns

Helsinki, July 2 (AP).—Scattered parliamentary election results showed tonight gains for the Social Democrats and Conservatives. Losses were registered by the Communist-led Popular Democrats in the first returns.

In the rural districts in northern Finland, Agrarians seemed to have gained.

Up to midnight only about 140,000 votes out of about two million cast had been counted.

About one third of the votes were counted in Tampere, Popular Democratic stronghold in 1945, and results indicated a retreat for the Communist-Socialist coalition. Less than one third of the votes counted in Turku pointed to the same results.

Chinese Reds Free Four U. S. Marines

Tsingtao, China, July 2 (AP).—Four U. S. Marine fliers held captive by Chinesce Communists since May 5 were released today, the Navy announced.

They are Lieut. Harold W. Hawkins, 25, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Master Sergt. Thomas J. Shaw, 32, Winfield, La.; T. Sergt. Robert C. White, 25, Norfolk, Va., and Corpl. Robert R. Lewis, 19, Petersburg, N. Y.

The fliers were forced down in Communist territory on Shantung Peninsula while on a routine flight.

The Navy public information officer, H. E. Reice, told newsmen: "They are in fine physical shape. There was no rough stuff."

Lieutenant Hawkins said the four men had nothing to do but play cards during the three months they were held. He said the Communists lectured them and gave them Communist literature but that they were free to disregard both.

They were fed an average Chinese soldier's diet, Hawkins said.

Blast Kills Woman Undergoing Operation

Utica, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—A 33-year-old woman, undergoing an operation, was fatally injured today when an anesthetic exploded in an operating room of Utica Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Jennie Infusino died shortly after the blast occurred. Her surgeon and three nurses were injured.

Tension Erupts

10 Injured In Panama Vote Riots

Panama City, Panama, July 2 (U.P.).—Ten persons were in hospitals today because of injuries sustained in political riots yesterday.

Tension mounting since the still indecisive May 9 presidential election finally erupted in scattered shootings and clubbings.

United States authorities placed Panama City out of bounds for American soldiers and sailors.

Counting of the election ballots by the national jury was proceeding almost identically with the count of the provincial juries, which showed opposition candidate Arnulfo Arias to be the winner by a margin of less than 2000 votes.

There were strong rumors that the jury may void the election because the validity of thousands of votes has been challenged.

Jury members of the government's Liberal Party yesterday moved to throw out all votes from Panama Province, which represents almost half the entire electorate of the republic. Arias carried the province by a wide margin over government candidate Dominigo Diaz.

Two New Yorkers Named to Head ECA Missions

Charles A. Marshall, New York attorney, was named yesterday to head the Economic Cooperation Administration's mission to Denmark.

Marshall, 65, is a senior partner in the firm of Dorr Hammond, Hand & Dawson. He has spent considerable time in Germany, France, Poland, Russia and Central America. He is a native of Baltimore and a graduate of Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland.

Appointment of John H. F. Haskell of New York as head of the ECA mission to Sweden also was announced.

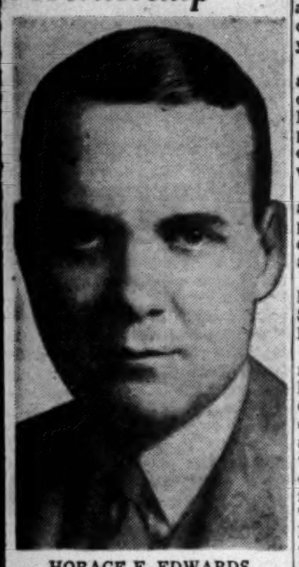
Mayor Seeks Governorship



HORACE E. EDWARDS
Announces candidacy

Richmond, Va., July 2 (AP).—Mayor Horace E. Edwards of Richmond stepped down as State chairman of the Democratic party today and announced his "irrevocable" candidacy for governor in next year's primary.

His announcement was made in a press release and was timed to coincide with an address he delivered at the opening of the party's State convention. His address merely hinted at the action when he said in closing:

"My own plans for tomorrow are such as to make it inappropriate for me to continue as your chairman. I ask that you elect another."

Edwards' announcement followed by three weeks that of State Senator John S. Battle of Charlottesville.

Thus Virginia Democrats, 13 months in advance of the primary, had the declarations of two candidates and the promise of two others. Both Battle and Edwards are members of the organization wing of the party and from this division may come also the announcement of Representative Thomas B. Stanley of the Fifth District, who said "I think I will" when asked if he would run. Col. Francis Pickens Miller of Charlottesville, a member of the anti-organization faction of the party, has indicated strongly his hat, too, probably would hit the ring.

While Edwards is considered "organization," he is considered less of a down-the-liner than the conservative Senator from Charlottesville. However, the organization support is almost certain to be split to some degree between Battle and Edwards if both are on the ticket at primary time next year.

Edwards will lose another in September when Richmond's new city manager form of government goes into effect and the position of mayor will be filled from among the members of the nine-man council.

The 45-year-old candidate has been mayor of Richmond since 1946. He served as chairman of the State central committee from 1940 until today and served three terms in the Virginia House of Delegates.

Va. Delegates To Back Ike greatest invasion of States' rights ever proposed."

Boom Starts at Caucus

Incorporating his plea for drafting Eisenhower with his protests over "this invasion of States' rights," he further declared:

"The Democratic Party can be united if it nominates a strong slate and rededicates itself to the principle of States' rights, the keystone of our democratic system."

The boom for a Draft-Eisenhower movement started in the morning caucus of the Eighth Congressional District delegates, meeting on the roof garden of Hotel Richmond.

Alexandria Delegate Marshall J. Beverley, Alexandria banker, officially moved that the district's 200 delegates go on record as favoring an Eisenhower-Byrd ticket.

"If we do not," declared Beverley, "Virginia will go Republican at the next election."

Immediately, Delegate Charles R. Holliday of Orange was on his feet to oppose the resolution. Though conceding "the greatest respect" for Eisenhower, he declared that Eisenhower was a Republican and didn't want the Presidency.

After lengthy dispute, the resolution was voted tabled by a large majority of the delegates, with main support for the resolution coming from the Alexandria delegation.

The successful fight to table the resolution was led by Delegate Nixon A. Brewer of Arlington. However, on the suggestion of Delegate J. Maynard Magruder, also of Arlington, the caucus voted accord on the explanation that the action should in no wise be interpreted as a repudiation of Senator Byrd.

In support of the resolution, a telegram from United States Senator Olin Johnson (D., S.C.) to C. C. Carlin, jr., Alexandria delegate and publisher of the Alexandria Gazette, was read to the caucus body.

It read, in part: "Am conclusively convinced Eisenhower will accept true convention draft. My conference on Tuesday leaves me with only one impression and that is he (Eisenhower) could not fail to respond to this challenge to further and greater service to his country and to the world."

Boothe Renamed Chairman

Earlier today, the Eighth District caucus reelected Gardner L. Boothe of Alexandria to a four-year term as chairman of the district's Democratic committee. Committee members elected to serve with him included:

Charles P. Fenwick of Arlington, Dan M. Chichester, Stafford; John Galleher, Loudoun; Mrs. H. H. Walton, Louisa; L. L. Triplett, Fauquier; French Slaughter, Culpeper; W. T. Dettor, Charlottesville, and H. T. Davies, Prince William.

District delegates also nominated two of their number as delegates to the National Democratic Convention, July 12, in Philadelphia, and selected a third for nomination on a delegate-at-large basis. Nominated were Dettor, and Thomas E. Frank of Fauquier, and (Delegate-At-Large) Thomas J. Broyhill of Arlington.

The main convention was opened at 1 p. m. in the Mosque Auditorium here by Horace H. Edwards, Mayor of Richmond and retiring chairman of the State Central Democratic Committee, who urged support of the national party nominee.

Edwards urged that Virginia either stay away from Philadelphia or agree to abide by the party's decision.

"We should not," he declared, "in this childish way, pick up our marbles and go home."

He hastened to add, however, that he was not speaking in behalf of Mr. Truman. In fact, he said, he hoped the President "might step aside and let the Democratic mantle fall upon the shoulders of someone behind whom the whole country might unite."

He mentioned Eisenhower as such a man "if he can be induced to accept the nomination." Mention of Eisenhower's name brought the heaviest applause of his address.

Keynote speaker W. Tayloe Murphy, State delegate from Warsaw, attacked the President's civil rights program, saying "the illusion of additional civil rights is what the program offers. Control of the destiny of the American people is what the program seeks." He called the program "undemocratic, unconstitutional, vicious . . . the black rot of totalitarianism."

G. Alvin Massenburg of Hampton, Speaker of the House of Delegates of the General Assembly was elected permanent chairman of the convention and to a four-year term as chairman of the State Central Democratic Committee, succeeding Edwards.

54 Instructed Votes Given to Eisenhower

By The Associated Press

When Virginia and Georgia yesterday threw their National Convention delegate strength to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, it gave the General 54 instructed votes, out of a total of 1234 in the convention. Virginia has 26 votes and Georgia 28. Another 58½ votes have been publicly announced as anti-Truman.

In addition, 20 votes are pledged to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and 11½ pledged to Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi.

With 618 needed for a nomination, Mr. Truman has 286 pledged or instructed and 390 claimed for him. But many of the latter are disputed and in recent days even some of the pledged are reported as feeling they are not legally bound to the President.

Here's how the 1234 votes are divided:

Pledged or instructed for Truman, 286.

Claimed for Truman, 390.

Pledged to Thurmond (South Carolina), 20.

Pledged to Wright (Mississippi), 11½.

(Some delegates in California, Colorado, and Wisconsin consider themselves free to vote as they please.)

Truman claimed: Arizona, 12; Idaho, 12; Indiana, 26; Iowa, 20; Massachusetts, 36; Nebraska, 10; New Hampshire, 12; New Jersey, 36; New York, 98; Ohio, 50; Pennsylvania, 74; Vermont, 4.

Gov. Duff to Support Dewey Enthusiastically

Harrisburg, Pa., July 2 (AP).—Gov. James H. Duff said today he will "enthusiastically" support Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for President and do any campaigning that the national Republican chairman requests of him.

"I am a Republican and once a decision has been made I have never sought and never will seek to put my judgment above the judgment of the convention."

Duff was at odds over the presidential nomination with other State leaders headed by United States Senator Edward Martin, Joseph R. Grundy and G. Mason Owlett. The Grundy faction supported Dewey. Duff opposed the nomination of the New York Governor until the final ballot.

1948 Surplus $8.4 Billions, Snyder Says

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder reported yesterday that the Government finished the 1948 fiscal year June 30 with what he called a "true" surplus of $8,419,469,843, the highest in history.

It was seven times the previous high set in boomtime 1927 and compares with 754 million dollars in fiscal 1947. The 1947 surplus was the first after a series of huge deficits during the depression and war years.

Receipts for 1948 were $44,746,000,000 and expenditures $36,326,000,000.

Snyder told a press conference the 1948 surplus was 937 million dollars higher than President Truman estimated in his January budget message, although receipts failed to meet his estimate by 465 million dollars. Snyder said the drop in receipts was due partly to the income tax cut which was retroactive to January 1.

Spending Off $1,402,000,000

Spending declined $1,402,000,000 from the January estimates, due to what Snyder called "delayed expenditures" and certain economies "down the line."

But even as he spoke, Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, pledged that congressional investigation will keep an even closer check on Government spending at home and abroad this summer.

Bridges said it was planned to have either the Senate or House Appropriations Committee check the spending of most Government agencies in Washington.

The Senate-House watch dog committee set up to keep tabs on European recovery expenditures will follow foreign aid shipments from the time they leave this country until they reach the consumer abroad.

State Praised For Religious Garb Vote

The vote of North Dakota to forbid wearing of religious garb by public school teachers was commended here yesterday by Dr. Joseph Martin Dawson, acting head of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

North Dakota voters in a referendum in connection with the State's primary election Tuesday, gave a majority of 8974 to a measure generally accepted as intended to prohibit Catholic nuns from teaching in public schools.

Stand Not Anti-Catholic

Dr. Dawson said in a statement: "I wish to warn lest the issue should be interpreted wrongly as anti-Catholic. . . . We agreed heartily with the Catholic position that civil rights must be respected to the utmost. Nevertheless, we insisted that the election was in order because a teacher wearing distinctive religious garb shows a symbol of a particularly sectarian faith and is defended by the Catholic Church as a visible token of its faith. No doubt it exerts a silent but real influence in behalf of that religion. . . .

"As long as the official position of the Catholic Church in respect to the Constitution in application to church and state is upheld by them, they may expect open resistance on the part of Protestants and many other Americans all over the Nation.

Catholic Position Opposed

The Catholic position, as is well known, is that the Constitution was never intended to do more than forbid the establishment of a particular state church and leaves the Government free to aid financially and otherwise any and all churches just so it does not show partiality.

"Protestants assert that the Constitutions of 46 States expressly forbidding tax aid to church schools, together with the decision of many State Supreme Courts to the same effect, and the recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the Everson and McCollum cases, abundantly warrant the historical and traditionally American view of complete separation between church and state. The North Dakota vote clearly shows the people wish to preserve this view."

Drums Beat for Congress Call, And GOP Platform Challenge

By The Associated Press

Some highly placed Democrats began beating the drums yesterday for a special session of Congress this summer—and a presidential challenge to the Republicans to deliver on their 1948 platform promises.

GOP lawmakers generally were cool to the idea of getting back into harness any time soon.

President Truman himself declined to comment.

Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, told reporters pressure was coming from many people for Mr. Truman to call Congress back soon after the Democratic Convention opening in Philadelphia July 12.

McGrath had just issued a formal blast at what he called the "dismal failure" of the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress. He said people will remember Congress' record when they vote in November.

Representative Spence of Kentucky, ranking Democrat on the House Banking Committee, said he was one of those in favor of a special session call.

Declaring that "the Republican platform reads like an indictment of the Republican Congress," Spence added:

"The President should call Congress back and challenge the Republicans to make good on their platform. He should call upon the Republicans to do something about the high cost of living and about housing."

Senator Sparkman (D., Ala.) commented: "It would be rather interesting to see the Republicans challenged to deliver on their platform promises, which are completely inconsistent with the record of the Eightieth Congress."

But Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee had this to say:

"Nothing could be accomplished by a special session, because the President would be sure to veto anything we did. The American people will just have to wait until Dewey gets into the White House."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP presidential nominee, said after last month's Republican convention he believed it would be an imposition on Congress members to call them back at this time.

But McGrath said a special session "is not outside the realm of possibility—it is up to the President to do it."

Mr. Truman was asked about the prospects at his news conference Thursday. He has the power to call Congress at any time. All he would say was no comment.

Some Democrats are frankly dubious about a special session. One said privately that it might wind up with each party accusing the other of responsibility for inaction.

Stop-Truman Caucus Called

mined last night there was no set course of action beyond the "Draft Eisenhower" try. Should the general deliver one final and unequivocal "No," the anti-Truman insurrection may scatter overnight. The only other prominently mentioned alternative is Associate Justice William O. Douglas.

A plan to rally behind Douglas if Eisenhower bows out was tentatively being discussed. Either Alabama or California may be asked to yield their roll-call priority to Minnesota. Minneapolis' liberal Mayor Hubert Humphrey may then make the nominating speech for Douglas.

If both the Eisenhower draft and the Douglas substitute move fails, liberal Democrats are talking about presenting Humphrey's own name for Vice President to give Truman a progressive running mate.

But Southern delegates who are booming the Eisenhower draft balk at any mention of the liberal Douglas.

Thus General Eisenhower, who has many times disavowed his candidacy, and said he would not serve except under overriding circumstance, could puncture the boom, and leave Truman practically a clear field, with a word.

George E. Allen, a Truman intimate and also a close friend of the general, last night was reliably reported trying to get him to say it.

Allen was a guest for the day at Ike's home near Columbia University. Asked if he was trying to get a flat "yes" or "no" answer, Allen had no comment.

Reports that Allen's weekend mission is to get Ike to say "no" persisted in the face of a denial by Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath (R. I.) that the White House has taken any steps to that end.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross later issued a denial that President Truman was seeking another withdrawal statement from Eisenhower or was party to any such move.

"If Mr. Allen is seeing General Eisenhower, he is seeing him on his own—I don't know for what purpose," said Ross. "He is certainly not an emissary of President Truman. All I know about this visit is what I have read in the papers."

Pressure Applied

Just as much pressure to get the General to run is being and will be applied by the group seeking a winning ticket alternative to what they regard as Mr. Truman's certain defeat.

Just how to proceed with the "draft" will be the central theme of the July 10 caucus. Two possible courses were discussed in yesterday's transcontinental talks:

1 Announce for the group that his name will be placed in nomination unless the general "puts his foot down."

2. Appoint a delegation to wait on "Ike" and draw their own conclusions.

Besides Arvey and O'Dwyer, these other Democratic leaders reportedly have been invited to join in the caucus: E. Cyril Bevan, Michigan National committeeman; Robert E. Tehan, Wesconsin National committeeman; Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis; Chester Bowles, former price administrator; Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.), former Representative Joseph Casey of Massachusetts; William Ritche, Nebraska State chairman, and former Mayor Frank Hague of New Jersey.

Senator Sparkman Active

Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.), who broke with Truman last March over his civil rights program and was among the first to urge an Eisenhower draft, was believed one of those active in the caucus negotiations.

Sparkman told newsmen he is "just an interested bystander."

"Along with others, I have kept in close touch with the various delegations," he said. "In my opinion, unless General Eisenhower definitely forbids it, his name will be placed before the convention."

Later Sparkman said in a radio interview (mutual) that the "solid South" will fight to the end against President Truman at the convention.

Sparkman said the South would support General Eisenhower "first" and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas "second" for the nomination.

He said the South had turned against President Truman because of his "civil rights" program and that he personally felt Mr. Truman had "doublecrossed the States south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Lacking any central organization until yesterday's move for an "open convention" caucus, other unrelated "stop Truman" moves were still in the works. Among them:

A conference of 15 Southern Governors in Philadelphia Sunday, July 11. This is aimed not only at a Truman alternative but at State's rights watering down of the party's civil rights plank.

A round robin open letter to Truman urging him to step aside in favor of Eisenhower. National Committeeman Harry Carlson of New Hampshire sparked this move in a letter to all delegates.

Obviously at Odds

Southern and Northern anti-Truman Democrats, while working together to draft Eisenhower, were obviously at odds on the party's civil rights stand—a friction point that could crack any real intersectional teamwork.

Many Southern delegates have vowed in advance to walk out of the convention if the platform echoes Mr. Truman's call for anti-poll-tax, anti-lynching, anti-Jim Crow and FEPC legislation.

Leading Northern and Western Democrats active in the dump Truman move on the other hand are vigorously pressing for a strong stand for all four. Arvey, O'Dwyer and Humphrey, for example, are now circulating a proposed statement backing to the hilt the report of the President's Commission on Civil Rights.

Other Developments

In these other developments:

Former State Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York wrote Democratic State Chairman Paul Fitzpatrick that the national ticket will be defeated, and many Democratic Congressmen, State and local officers as well, if Truman is the nominee. Mahoney, a convention delegate, said he felt "that if General Eisenhower were actually nominated at the convention, he could not possibly turn down such nomination and that it would be his duty in the interest of all the people of the country to accept the nomination."

Leaders of three organizations of Democrats combined headquarters in a drive for the nomination of Supreme Court Justice Douglas. Maurice P. Davidson, New York City attorney, announced the newly formed committee of New York Democrats for Douglas. A second group, the National Young Democrats for Douglas, said it will lead representatives from 38 States to the convention. A third group, the Douglas for President Clubs, staged a placard demonstration in downtown Manhattan Thursday night.

Bill Changing Blind Benefits Pocket Vetoed

President Truman yesterday killed by pocket veto a bill which would have changed the basis for payment of Federal benefits to blind persons.

He said the measure would do "serious damage" to the Social Security program and reduce the assistant payments to thousands of blind persons now in great need.

The bill would have permitted individual States, in determining need and resources of a person requesting Federal assistance, to disregard earnings up to $40 a month received by the blind person.

The President said that this would work a hardship in the long run because the States would be forced to spread a fixed amount of money among a larger group of eligibles.

Measures still awaiting presidential action include one to renew the terms of members of the Atomic Energy Commission for two years.

The President yesterday approved:

A bill to permit federal law enforcement agents in hazardous jobs to retire at the age of 50 after 20 years' service. FBI agents already have a similar retirement plan. The new law covers U. S. marshals, federal prison guards, and all investigation agencies such as Secret Service, Narcotics Bureau, Alcohol Tax Unit, and Customs Service.

Legislation to put 254 war plants into a reserve defense pool. The plants, which cost three billion dollars, produced aircraft, explosives, nonferrous metals, machine tools, iron, magnesium, and other war products.

A bill to provide that three government-owned plants used for wartime alcohol production shall be turned over to the Agriculture Department to be used in disposal of surpluses.

Disability Pension Boost

A bill increasing pensions to service personnel disabled in line of duty was signed into law by President Truman yesterday.

At present, a veteran totally disabled during wartime receives $138 a month if he has a wife but no other dependents. The law increases this amount by $21. There are other increases varying with the number of dependents. Corresponding increases are provided for veterans disabled between 60 and 100 per cent.

A bill authorizing the Army to supply headstones or markers for unmarked graves of all members of the armed forces, and honorably discharged former members.

Truman Expected To Sign Pay Bill Today

President Truman is expected to sign the Federal pay raise bill today.

The White House said yesterday that Mr. Truman expected to act on the last 45 measures sent to him by Congress before he departs Sunday morning for a speech at Bolivar, Mo. The 45 are the residue of some measures passed in the closing days of the recent congressional session.

Bolivar Ready for Biggest Day

Bolivar, Mo., July 2 (AP).—Bolivar rushed through a state of "orderly confusion" today as it completed preparations for the day its 3000 residents expect to be the biggest in its 112-year history.

Next Monday the community will be host to President Truman and President Romulo Gallagos of Venezuela as the latter presents to the United States a $100,000 statue of Simon Bolivar, for whom the city was named.

The Pan-American friendship gesture will climax a three-day program beginning tomorrow with a fiesta in the best South American tradition.

Dr. Foyle C. McCraw, the mayor, and the citizens of Bolivar have been looking forward to this day since that time some seven years ago when it was suggested that a statue of the South American liberator be placed in the largest city in the United States bearing his name.

Welcome placards, bunting and flags of the 21 South American republics dot the city. More than 1000 pounds of turkey will be served Monday to the guests.

Mayor McCraw was cautious about predicting the size of the crowd, but said it would be "a great many." Some city officials have estimated as high as 50,000.

Plans call for the two Presidents to arrive by train at 9:45 a. m. Monday. After being presented with the keys to the city, they will review the parade of 150 floats and military and veterans organizations from the courthouse square.

The dedicatory ceremonies will be held at the site of the statue in Neuhart Park, five blocks south of the square. Here President Gallegos will make the presentation speech followed by President Truman's dedicatory address.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly will make the address of welcome.

N. Y. Union Chiefs Get House Subpena

By the United Press

Representative Fred A. Hartley, jr. (R., N. J.) said yesterday that 31 left and right wing New York labor leaders have been subpenaed to appear before a House Labor Subcommittee in New York Wednesday.

The left-wingers will be asked to give yes-or-no answers to the question: "Are you a member of the Communist Party?"

If they refuse to answer, Hartley said, they will be cited for contempt of Congress.

The right-wingers include known anti-Communists.

Hartley, chairman of the full House Labor Committee, outlined his plans after the subcommittee recessed, until the New York meeting, its investigation of communism in New York locals of the CIO Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes Union.

Ex-FBI Agent Heard

The subcommittee had heard Theodore C. Kirkpatrick, a former FBI agent, testify that New York City's economy was blanketed by the Communist Party last year when it had 11,000 members placed in strategic social and economic fields.

Kirkpatrick, who served with the FBI during the war, said some 517 Communists were members of the CIO union and 663 members were students, the "largest section of all."

Kirkpatrick's figures were for June, 1947.

Hartley said the 31 subpenas cover persons connected with New York labor unions in the "distributive" fields. The group includes both left and right wing leaders, he added.

Hartley, who hinted the inquiry may be broadened to cover the shipping industry, said the New York hearing will be convened in the Federal Building, Foley Square. He said that in addition to the 31 persons for whom he already has issued subpenas, he undoubtedly will add others between now and Wednesday.

He said the following labor leaders already have been subpenaed:

Carl Andron, Samuel Lewis, William Michelson, Ralph Knight, Gene Bill, John J. Sheehan, Sam Kovenetsky, Martin Kyne, John Hovan, Jack Altman, Marcella Loring, Arthur Osman, Nicholas Carnes, George Meisler, Sadka Brown, Anna Blanck, David Livingston, Samuel Wolchok, Irving Wodin, Nathan Solomon, Mike Smith, Jack Paley, Goodhue Weatherly, jr., Eli Halpern, Mildred Loew, Dean Zavatarro, Paul P. Milling, Sam Nessin (Nesin), Esther Letz, David Lifschitz, Leon J. Davis.

Hartley also revealed that a "couple of dozen" New York department store workers will be called to testify, probably in secret, before the committee. Store executives have charged that rank-and-file union members are held in line by the union leaders through "terror" tactics.

Red Setup Described

Kirkpatrick, now a private investigator and copublisher of the weekly anti-Communist news letter, Counterattack, said the CIO retail and wholesale union was established in the early 1930s after Communist leaders decided to branch out to some "light" industry. They previously had concentrated on heavy industry, he said.

He showed the Congressmen what he called an "exact copy" of a Communist Party "control bulletin" dated June 13, 1947. He said it outlined an organization of 20 "sections" in New York County, broken down by industry and location.

"Would you say the sections pretty well blanket key positions in New York's economic and industrial life?" Asked Subcommittee Chairman Charles J. Kersten (R., Wisc.).

Communists Not at Top

"Yes," replied Kirkpatrick. "Definitely so."

Kirkpatrick said the CIO Union is not Communist-controlled at the top level and that there are no Communist-dominated locals outside New York. And, he went on, more New York locals are non-Communist than Communist.

But the Communists were able to make "tremendous headway" in organizing department stores in the late 1930's, partly because wages and working conditions were "substandard," he said.

He testified that two Communist Party members originally charged with organizing the stores "were responsible directly to the State committee of the Communist Party."

Kirkpatrick said he and two other wartime FBI agents formed an organization known as American Business Consultants, Inc., New York City. He said their business "is detection and research into all types of Communist activity and the exposure of this activity to the best of our ability."

Named Master

Groner Gets Tidal Case Assignment

Chief Justice Vinson of the Supreme Court yesterday appointed D. Lawrence Groner to serve as special master in the California Tidelands oil case.

Groner

Groner retired March 8 as chief justice of the United States Court of Appeals here.

Vinson made the appointment under a formal order issued by the Supreme Court on June 21. In making the appointment, Vinson stated:

"The special master shall have authority to summon witnesses, issue subpenas, and to take such evidence as he may deem necessary."

Groner, 74 years old, is a veteran Federal jurist who has had wide experience with marine and coastal legal procedure.

Steelman Tries to Renew Rail Talks

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman tried anew yesterday to settle the months-old railway wage dispute. But the three rail unions went ahead with plans to fight the permanent antistrike injunction issued Thursday by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Steelman met at the White House with the president of the three brotherhoods and later with carrier representatives. One high Federal official said "chances are pretty good" that agreement can be reached.

One on the Aisle—

H_2O Outdazzles Even Schnozzle

By Richard L. Coe

THE SMOOTH, SLICK half-world that exists only in the Technicolored musicals of the larger screen companies is with us again on the Capitol screen. Esther Williams, Peter Lawford and Jimmy Durante are the stars this time; their vehicle is blazoned as "On an Island with You."

Everybody and everything, of course, looks perfectly wonderful. Even water achieves a glittering substance in Miss Williams' films. It is a mark of Miss Williams' Technicolor musicals that common, ordinary H2O takes on an allure that the stuff never has from a tap of one's own. The half-green, half-bluee shimmer of Metro's fancy water epitomizes the complete success with which the skilled hands of a mighty studio can turn the commonplace into the miraculous.

For the script and music, which have required the services of a half-dozen artisans, is certainly commonplace in "On an Island with You." But the purty people and the skilled people know what's expected of them in this business. They create their never-never land with a canny certainty.

Their story, which begins with something close to but never quite satire, details the hopeless passion the visit of a film star brought to a Navy flier on a Pacific island. Three years later he's still nursing his memory of the lovely lady when, bingo, he sees a chance to act as "military adviser" on the star's latest epic. Although she's engaged to marry her costar, you can imagine this fellow hasn't a chance when a polished two-striper named Peter Lawford moves in.

"ON AN ISLAND WITH YOU," an MGM picture produced by Joe Pasternak, directed by Richard Thorpe, screen play by Dorothy Kingsley, Dorothy Cooper, Charles Martin and Hans Wilhelm, original story by Martin and Wilhelm, songs by Nacio Herb Brown and Edward Heyman, dances and water ballets by John Donohue. At the Capitol.

THE CAST

Rosalind Reynolds.....Esther Williams
Lieut. Lawrence Kingsley.....Peter Lawford
Ricardo Montes.....Ricardo Montalban
Buckley.....Jimmy Durante
Yvonne Torro.....Cyd Charisse
Commander Harrison.....Leon Ames
Penelope Peabody.....Kathryn Beaumont
George Blaine.....Dick Simmons
Xavier Cugat and Orchestra

Jimmy Durante Moves In

As in all the never-never land stories, this is handled with just the degree of solemnity that keeps it from being really fun. Treating of two such admired folks as a film star and a Navy officer, the tongue is never in the cheek. Any temptation to really let down the bars and spoof the situation is ignored in favor of the oh-gee-gosh-golly tone.

In the cast to provide the lightness is Jimmy Durante, who is given his chance to sport at the piano. He is allowed to kid his own past ("Clayton, Jackson and Buckley!" shouts Jimmy as Assistant Director Buckley, recalling his own merry past with Clayton, Jackson and Durante.). But all this is purely a side issue, alas, and Jimmy rates better material than he's given.

Also taking over from Miss Williams, who is loved by Ricardo Montalban, who is loved by Cyd Charisse, is Xavier Cugat. The rhumba man has a lively singer named Betty Reilly, who sings "La Cumbanchero," whatever that is. There are several dreamy water numbers. One of them, Peter Lawford regrets to find, actually is a dream.

In short, "On an Island with You," while certainly not inspired, is an exact, slick excursion into the super-escape world of the Technicolored musical formula.

EVALYN TYNER, who remains a positive wiz at the piano, headlines the Capitol's stage revue . . . This visit Miss Evalyn also is acting as an assured mistress of ceremonies, a far cry from the days when she made her first appearance on the same stage for one of Gene Ford's "Going Native" revues . . . The Tyner success in the flossy bistros has given her sleek elan with which to introduce Don Cumming, Franklin and Moore and Paul Sydell.

DID'JA notice an ad in yesterday's "personal" column seeking information about Erwin C. Ruth? . . . It was inserted by Columbia Pictures, is appearing again this morning and Sunday . . . Columbia's S. Sylvan Simon is doing a Technicolor film about Arizona's Superstition Mountains . . . Back in the summer of 1931 Adolph Ruth was mysteriously murdered there while searching for the rich Lost Dutchman mine . . . Adolph's son Erwin is known to have lived here and in Baltimore, but friends have lost track of him . . . Now the studio is trying to find him to help in Simon's picture . . . If you have any clews as to Erwin Ruth's whereabouts, you're asked to contact Simon at Columbia Pictures, Hollywood.

TONIGHT'S hillbilly fans at Constitution Hall get a big-time duo, with Lulu Belle and Scotty of Chicago's National Barn Dance, topping the bill . . . North Carolina's Connie B. Gay is rubbing his paws over this because to him Lulu Belle and her husband are fellow Tarheels he's always wanted to have on his mountain music show.

Air Force Planes Cost Average of $662,000 Each

The Air Force paid an average of $622,000 each for 660 planes ordered in the 12 months ending June 30.

This was disclosed yesterday in a summary of the orders, showing a total of $440,911,000 obligated for 125 bombers, 344 jet fighters, 104 transports, 39 helicopters, 20 amphibian search planes and 28 jet trainers.

Probably fewer than a dozen of these planes were delivered during the fiscal year. The Air Force will not begin to get some types until next year. Costliest plane among the dozen types ordered was a light jet bomber, the North American B-45. The average price was $1,966,000. The much larger Boeing B-50 with conventional engines averages around $1,447,000. Most of the difference is in the cost of jet engines.

Haniotis Bill Reaches President Too Late

By The Associated Press

A bill to admit George Haniotis, a national of Greece, as a permanent resident of the United States reached President Truman too late.

Haniotis has died since passage of the bill.

The President announced his pocket veto of the measure because under the circumstances "its only effect would be to reduce the immigration quota for Greece."

French Harvest Threat

Paris, July 2 (NYHT).—Unusually heavy rain in the latter part fo June has checked springtime optimism about the 1948 French harvest. Agricultural experts say there will be a sharp downward revision in yield estimates unless the next two weeks are normally sunny.

Streptomycin Now Available at Cost To Va. Physicians

Virginia physicians may now obtain streptomycin at cost from their local Tuberculosis Association, for use in treating private tuberculosis patients, the Alexandria Tuberculosis Association announced this week. Present rate is $1.94 per gram, plus postage.

A special arrangement in Alexandria where doctors must pay a high local tax on gross income, will allow patients themselves to order the drug if they include a written doctor's order. The drug will go direct to the physician, but the patient will be billed.

Streptomycin has proved more successful than older methods of treatment in many cases of tuberculosis meningitis, glandular and intestinal tuberculosis. The National Tuberculosis Association warns, however, that the drug may be useless or even dangerous in certain cases.

Police Uncover Numbers Ring In Ford Plant

Detroit, July 2 (AP).—Suburban Dearborn police today claimed to have uncovered a five-million-dollar a year numbers ring inside the big Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co.

Two minor Ford officials were fired for failing to relay reports of gambling and bribery to their superiors.

Dearborn police said at least 250 men are known to have been collectors for the numbers ring inside the plant.

Police Chief Ralph Guy said Edward Hester, a CIO United Auto Workers committeeman in the production foundry, had been arrested. He charged that Hester offered him $100 Thursday night to "leave me alone."

D. C. Guild's Action On Red Disputed

San Francisco, July 2 (AP).—Membership in the Communist Party is not sufficient cause for discharge of a newspaperman, the American Newspaper Guild held today.

In the closing session of the 15th annual convention here, the delegates also selected Columbus, Ohio, for the 1949 convention city. The date will be set later.

The convention also named Hal Boyle, Associated Press columnist, as international vice president for the New York district to succeed John McManus of New York, resigned.

A referendum will be held in the midwestern district to select a successor to Dick O'Malley of Denver, who resigned. Ray Kuhn of Bay City, Mich., and Adolf Rahm of St. Louis, Mo., have been nominated.

Earlier the guild passed a resolution urging a hearing for Thomas G. Buchanan, discharged from the staff of the Washington, D. C., Star, after he admitted membership in the Communist Party.

"Any such discharges should be resisted to the fullest," the resolution said, "and be it further resolved that the Washington (guild) local be urged to process the Buchanan grievance.

Buchanan, 29-year-old medical reporter for the Evening Star of Washington, D. C., was fired March 24 after he acknowledged joining the Communist Party.

The Washington Newspaper Guild (CIO) previously had voted not to go to Buchanan's defense.

Buchanan, Guild spokesmen said, made no appeal to the convention here to discuss the case. However, the spokesman said, the matter was brought before the resolutions committee "as a matter of principle."

The Guild voted to accept its collective bargaining committee's report, containing the following program for future bargaining:

1. The working out of pension systems.
2. The possibility of a 5-day, 35-hour week.
3. Plans for a prepaid hospital care provision to be paid for by management.
4. The matter of differential pay for overtime, night, and holiday work.
5. No discrimination in contracts.
6. Plans for job security and union security.

Court Backs Prince Georges Liquor Board

The Prince Georges County Board of License Commissioners was upheld in five liquor license appeals heard yesterday by the County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro, Md.

Outstanding case was that of Joseph W. and Fern L. Shuler, who had been granted a beer and light-wine license for their restaurant on Route 5 near Clinton, Md.

The Circuit Court once before had set aside their license on the grounds that some of the signers of their petition were not property owners. The Shulers had obtained new signers and complied with the requirements of the law and were granted a license despite the opposition of the Jenkins Corner Citizens Association May 28.

Judge John B. Gray, jr., held that many citizens, not given to intemperate habits, like a glass of beer or wine with their meals. He added that the citizens had the burden of proof that the license was not in the public interest and dismissed the appeal.

Frank M. Hall, attorney for the Shulers, contended that much of the opposition to the license was from prohibitionists.

The court upheld the liquor board in four other appeals heard yesterday.

In the case of Red Cohan's Bar and Steakhouse in Brentwood, citizens contended that a stairway in the rear of the establishment is dangerous. The court ordered that the dangerous situation, if present, be corrected within 30 days or the license would be suspended. Otherwise the court ordered the board upheld and the license granted. Councilman J. Milton Stamford represented the citizens.

The court ordered dismissal of the appeal opposing granting a renewal of license to Louis Brenner for a store at 4300 Rhode Island ave., also opposed by Brentwood citizens on the ground that there are too many liquor establishments in the community. State Senator L. Harold Sothoron represented Brenner.

License of Ralph J. Boatwright, operator of the establishment at 5431 Defense hwy., was ordered granted despite objections of the Sunnybrook Citizens Association which contended the place was under construction at the time the license was granted. Attorney Ignatius J. Keane said the construction work was remodeling of the front.

The court refused to grant a liquor license to William T. Sorrell, 4225 Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor, who had been refused a license by the liquor board. Sorrell has a beer and wine license. The license was opposed by the mayor and council of Colmar Manor on grounds that the area had too many liquor establishments already.

Union Wins Lynchburg Vote, Loses Farmville

Lynchburg, Va., July 2 (AP).—CIO United Shoeworkers will represent workers at the three Lynchburg plants of the Craddock-Terry Shoe Corp., but not at the Farmville plant of that firm.

The union won a collective bargaining election at the Lynchburg installations by a 45-vote margin, but workers at the Farmville factory voted against the CIO group, 133 to 51.

The Lynchburg vote was 987 for the CIO and 942 for no union. Of 2153 eligible voters, 1929 cast ballots.

Rockville Bridge Cause Of Dispute

A Rockville, Md., landmark, the old wooden bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Agnew dr., yesterday was the center of a dispute between Rockville and Montgomery County officials and the railroad.

Recently condemned as unsafe, the bridge was closed to vehicular traffic by the railroad on June 18. About 200 residents of Rockcrest have claimed in a petition the bridge was their only outlet to the Rockville pike.

As a result of the petition, a conference between the railroad and Montgomery County and Rockville officials is being arranged, County Attorney F. Barnard Welsh said yesterday.

Scheduled for discussion at the conference is how much each of the three parties should pay toward the cost of a new steel and concrete bridge to replace the old one.

Town and county officials at one time considered filing suit against the railroad to force it to keep the wooden bridge open. When advised of that fact, the railroad reportedly threatened to withdraw its offer to finance one third of the cost of a new bridge if legal action were taken.

Closed Shop Ban Sought

Lewis to put the union shop proviso into effect. That, officials point out, would mean a strike in "captive mines" and a shutdown in steel production.

The "captive mines" produce about 60 million tons of coal a year. The commercial coal companies that have signed the agreement with UMW produce about 400 million tons a year. The remaining 140 million tons of American coal production—a total of 600 million tons—is produced in nonunion mines or mines worked by the Progresstve Mines Union—a union outside of Lewis' group.

Officials Limit Distribution of New D.C. Maps

District Highway officials, who have received a barrage of telephone requests for copies of the new free "Official District Highway Map," yesterday urged citizens to send their requests by mail.

D. S. Brinkley, Highway Planning Engineer, whose office prepared the map, emphasized that with but 10,000 copies available, only persons "who will really make use of the maps" should ask for them.

"They're not intended to be tucked away in drawers as souvenirs," he declared.

Persons wishing to obtain copies, he said, should send a postcard or letter stating why they need the map to D. S. Brinkley, Highway Planning Engineer, 203 Bryant st. nw., Washington, D. C.

All requests should include the sender's home address. If highway officials are convinced that the request is bona fide and that the sender will make good use of the map, they will send him a copy by mail. Telephone requests will not be honored, Brinkley said.

Roomer Evicted For Keeping Key From Landlord

Roomers can be evicted for refusing to furnish their landlords with a key when repairs are necessary, according to a Municipal Court of Appeals decision yesterday.

Under that ruling, Mrs. Gladys B. Vaughn, 1345 Girard st. nw., was given possession of the quarters occupied in her rooming house by Miss Alice Neal, 2509 17th st. nw.

According to the evidence, Mrs. Vaughn was afraid that if she didn't make certain repairs, her rooming-house license might be jeopardized. She brought suit when Miss Neal refused to turn over the key when it was demanded.

Speedy Trials Work Magic In D. C. Court

The District Court policy of granting speedy trials to accused criminals is working effectively, according to official figures released yesterday.

The number of pending cases on the calender this July 1 was 128 compared to 246 on July 1, 1947.

At the present time there are only 12 cases more than one year old. There are the same number of cases between 6 and 12 months old.

A breakdown of cases during the past year shows there were 1507 indictments and 232 fugitive and appeals cases. Of the cases disposed of, 414 were by jury trial, 916 by plea and 318 by dismissal.

There were 35 cases not available for trial because of illness or pending appeal, arraignment, bond forfeiture or further consideration by the United States attorney as of July 1.

3 Held in Bond After Hearings On Jail Break

Three men who broke out of the Prince Georges County Jail at Upper Marlboro, Md., June 23 were held in bond after preliminary hearings yesterday in Police Court in Upper Marlboro.

Alfred Coleman, 19; Morris Irvin, 28, and Charles McManus, 25, were held for action of the grand jury on charges of jailbreak. Bond was fixed at $1000 each. They were also held on charges of grand larceny, for which bond was fixed at $1500, in connection with theft of an automobile in which they escaped.

In addition, Assistant State's Attorney Hervey G. Machen asked for a jury trial in the case of McManus, charged with assault upon the jailer, William B. Richards, 54, of Westwood, Md. Bond was fixed at $100 in this case.

The three men were returned to the county jail where Irving and McManus were awaiting grand jury action and Coleman was serving a 60-day sentence at the time of the break.

Two other men who escaped at the same time have not been recaptured. They are Preston Wallace, jr., 19, of Hyattsville, and John T. Ford, 22, of Chapel Oaks, Md.

Monumental Centenary

If one may judge by the preparations the celebration at the Washington Monument this afternoon will be quite as great an occasion as the ceremonies attending the placing of the cornerstone just 100 years ago. The crowd, at any rate, will be larger, and the general observances of the centenary will be extended over three days.

There will of course be one great difference. The ceremonies of July 4, 1848, were attended by the whole body of Congress, by President Polk and nearly all members of the Cabinet. Among them were many who were to become important historically in the thirty-four violent years that were to pass before the monument was completed. One of the celebrants, then almost unknown outside his own State, was a man whose historic greatness in the imaginations of his countrymen and the world, was to rival that of the hero to whose memory the monument was being raised. It could hardly have entered the head of Representative Abraham Lincoln, of Illinois, as he listened to the dedicatory oration by Speaker Winthrop, that an even nobler monument to his own memory would one day be erected nearby.

Thus we must leave it to those who will write notices of a bicentenary celebration to say how the celebrities actual and potential at today's ceremonies compare in historic stature with those of a hundred years ago. We have at this writing no information concerning the theme of the speech to be made by President Truman; but since a purely political speech would be out of order on so solemn an occasion, we surmise that he will address himself to some phase of tremendous destiny with which the political descendants of Washington have been brought face to face. The style of patriotic oratory has changed considerably since 1848, but let us hope that the patriotic temper of Americans remains the same.

Costa Rica Scramble

An air of considerable mystery has shrouded the events in Costa Rica since the revolutionary forces of Jose Figueres took over the country in April. The revolution was, on the face of it, an effort to prevent the factions allied with Dr. Rafael Calderon Guardia from perpetuating themselves in power after he was defeated for the Presidency in an election held earlier this year. The confusion surrounding the activities of the revolutionary junta has been augmented by the charges and countercharges regarding the position of the Communists in Costa Rica. Part of the controversy has been carried on in the columns of this newspaper between Mr. Sumner Welles and the Costa Rican Embassy. On facts, Mr. Welles appears to have had the worse of the exchange, at least with respect to his effort to justify Dr. Calderon Guardia and to label Figueres as a tool of the Communists.

The seeds of the recent revolution go back to the period from 1940 to 1944, when Dr. Calderon Guardia was President of Costa Rica. His regime ruled with the support of the Vanguardia Popular, which was another name for the Communist Party. It is questionable how many of the party's rank and file members felt actual allegiance to Moscow, but there is no doubt that several Russian-trained Communists exercised domination and wielded considerable political power. The same situation prevailed during the 1944-48 presidential term of Teodoro Picado, who was named by Calderon Guardia as his successor. In addition, there was a considerable amount of nepotism and graft during both regimes. For example, a law was passed providing that the government would pay the expenses of political campaigns—except for parties opposing the government.

The dynastic ambitions of Calderon Guardia became apparent when he refused to accept the verdict of the 1948 elections. By a margin of 10,000 votes the election went in favor of Otilio Ulate, the National Union candidate. Amid cries of fraud, the Calderon Guardia-Picado faction sought to void the results. This thwarting of the popular will gave rise to the revolution led by Figueres, a longtime opponent of Calderon Guardia. Immediately the Communists leaped openly to the support of the die-hard government. Not too curiously, the Picado government received military aid from Nicaraguan Dictator Somoza, a right-wing extremist and avowed foe of the United States, thus demonstrating the alliance between extreme right and left. The Figueres forces themselves received outside aid, principally from Guatemala, and proved their superior prowess, with the result that a truce was drawn up in April leaving Figueres in control.

Figueres has announced that he intends to resign in favor of Ulate after a new constitution has been drawn up. Perhaps the best indication of his sincerity is the fact that he has recognized the worth of some of the social reforms initiated by the Communists and has refused to engage in a witch-hunt. His friendship for the United States is bolstered by the fact that he studied here and his wife is American-born. The real test of his motives of course will be the manner in which he facilitates a return to Costa Rica's tradition of popular democratic government.

Issue In Emphasis

Governor Dewey's inclination to make a special issue of aid to China is giving concern to some of his friends who hope to see the United States bipartisan foreign policy carried out in spirit as well as in fact. To be sure, the Governor's assertion that China should have "far greater financial assistance" than has been given by the Truman Administration came at a press conference. He has indicated an intention of making more deliberate and better-prepared pronouncements on foreign policy as the campaign gets under way. Yet it must be remembered that what he said after his nomination to head the Republican ticket coincides with what he said last December.

Mr. Dewey's preoccupation with aid to China is unfortunate for two reasons. First, it tends to drag into the campaign an area of foreign relations that should be controlled solely by our national interests and not by partisan considerations. Both the Republican platform and Mr. Dewey's acceptance speech were pitched on a higher key. They accepted the Marshall-Vandenberg policy, the essence of which is strategic use of American strength to support the cause of a free world. That policy carries out the principle of bipartisan approach to foreign relations which was first laid down by Mr. Dewey himself in the campaign of 1944. It is, in other words, above politics, and every aspect of the national interest pleads that it may remain so. If one item of foreign policy is dragged into the political arena, the whole range of our dealings with other nations will be in danger of distortion through partisan debate.

The second reason that militates against Mr. Dewey's stand is that he has not yet had an opportunity to canvass the world situation. The whole takes precedence over the part in America's present position. For better or worse, this country has become the power nucleus of the Western world. It can no longer enjoy the luxury of special friendships with nations that happen to have won more sympathy than others in the minds of our statesmen. We go further: if our world policy is to achieve its aims of freedom and peace, it must take the turn that will produce the most freedom. The emphasis, as Mr. Hoover said so well to the GOP convention, is on Western civilization.

If Governor Dewey is elected in November, he will doubtless sit down with his advisers and probe deeply into the world situation. Judging from his performance in selecting his running mate, judging from his choice as his chief adviser in foreign affairs, Mr. John Foster Dulles, he has a great deal of respect for facts and realities. It is difficult to believe that he will then give aid to China the prominence that he gave it in his post-nomination interview. Meanwhile, however, a good deal of damage could be done by dragging the issue into the campaign.

Railway Strike Problem

The temporary antistrike injunction issued early in May when the Army took over control of the railroads has now been replaced by a permanent injunction forbidding any strikes for the period of Government operation. The order issued by Justice Goldsborough will no doubt insure uninterrupted operation of the railroads as long as they remain in Government hands. That is a boon for which the country may well be grateful. But it must be obvious by this time that the invocation of governmental seizure powers to avert the dire consequences of a rail tie-up is a negative kind of protective device. What the country needs is a positive legislative program outlawing strikes endangering public welfare and providing for arbitration of deadlocked disputes that lead to strikes.

The Railway Labor Act does not bar strikes, if rail unions have, as in the present instance, complied with the delaying procedures laid down by the law to facilitate peaceful settlement of disputes. That is why the Government has resorted to seizure as a means of giving railroad employes the status of Government workers so that they may be enjoined from striking. It is a devious, clumsy, inadequate device for dealing with a problem that should be tackled in forthright fashion. Furthermore, seizure does not insure a settlement of the issues in dispute. The roads and the embattled unions involved in the present dispute may drag out negotiations begun months ago for the indefinite future, unless the Army, nominally in control of the roads, steps in to effect a settlement on behalf of the Government.

When deadlocks of this kind exist, the proper way to break them is to resort to arbitration. Neither the railway managements nor the rail unions welcome this kind of compulsion. But if disputes cannot be settled by peaceful compromises, arbitration is the only feasible alternative to Government seizure followed by a settlement dictated by Government officials. Such a settlement is likely to be much less satisfactory than an arbitral award made by an impartial board, acting in the interest of the public as well as the parties to the dispute.

The events of the last few years have demonstrated the need for some form of enforced settlement of this sort. The railroads and the unions still have an opportunity to submit disputes voluntarily to arbitration after the breakdown of negotiations. If they cling to their sparring tactics, compulsory arbitration will eventually be thrust upon them, whether they like it or not. And there is always the possibility that Government seizure, if it becomes a recognized means of dealing with labor disputes, will lead eventually to permanent Government ownership and control of the railroads.

Non-Communist Oath

For the second time a Federal Court has upheld the constitutionality of that provision of the Taft-Hartley Act requiring union officials to sign non-Communist affidavits. The majority opinion in the present instance is reported to have been based on the reasons advanced by the majority in an earlier decision handed down in Washington in a test case brought by the National Maritime Union.

This newspaper has taken the position that the non-Communist oath requirement of the Taft-Hartley Act is an ineffective device for ridding unions of Communists. The requirement, on the contrary, is calculated to encourage subterranean activities and to make it all the more difficult to discover and eliminate subversive groups. However, the courts are not concerned with the merits of the policy, but solely with the question of its constitutionality. The dissenting opinion of Justice Prettyman in the first test case was a strong, well-reasoned argument in support of the view that the non-Communist oath requirement infringes rights protected by the First Amendmant. His views are shared by the dissenting judge in the case decided in New York this week. Until the Supreme Court has ruled on the questions at issue, particularly the question as to whether the presence of Communists in labor unions constitutes a "clear and present danger to industrial peace," compliance with the law will continue to meet with resistance.

John L. Lewis provides an outstanding example of the complications resulting from refusal to take the oath as a condition of qualifying for recognition by the NLRB. As a result he cannot ask for an election under board auspices to ascertain whether UMW members want a closed-shop provision in their contract with the mine operators. Steel companies owning so-called captive mines have accordingly refused to sign the new contract negotiated with the commercial coal producers, on the ground that it provides for an illegal union shop, and have filed charges of unfair labor practices against John L. Lewis and the UMW. Thus Mr. Lewis' law-defying activities may lead to mine shutdowns of an extremely serious nature. This latest development underlines the importance of a final decision by the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the non-Communist oath requirement.

July Doings

At first glance July seems about the most hopeless month in the year, unless we except its winter counterpart, January. It has no delicate lingering breaths of spring, no subtle breezy promises of fall. It is frank, unrelieved midsummer. The sun flays the earth, the wind is lazy, the leaves listless, and as The Old Farmer's Almanac points out, "the world is full of squash bugs, caterpillars, blights, worms, leaf curlers, leaf hoppers and all their unpleasant relations." After the middle of the month there is no hopeful talk of cooler nights, as in August, but rather of the official arrival of dog days. Probably because of all this the poets have ignored July, and it has never been the darling of lovers, brides or hostesses. It used to be the favorite of vacationers, but now travel surveys show that their allegiance has shifted to August.

The month, however, has its points, one being that it provides a holiday. It also marks the beginning of harvest, and it offers in lieu of the first robin the first fall hat. Moreover, politicians, especially Democratic ones, seem to have some affection for it. William Jennings Bryan made his "Cross of Gold" speech at a Democratic National Convention, July 9, 1896, and Franklin D. Roosevelt made his first speech of acceptance of the presidential nomination July 2, 1932. Both events were in Chicago. Now the Democrats are preparing to hold a July national convention in Philadelphia, and Republicans, who have been there recently, wonder how their rivals will ever live through it—with the Quaker City presumably even hotter than it was the last of June.

However, big doings have taken place before in Philadelphia—in July. On July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress passed a resolution of independence, and two days later, on July 4, adopted and proclaimed to the world what it called the "Declaration," a document written by one of its members, Thomas Jefferson.

A SILVER PERSIAN EATING A HEART

The pet with fur like puffy flowers
Feeds upon an ox's heart;
A live chrysanthemum, she glowers
And tears it greedily apart.

Her silver gluttens on its red;
Her golden eyes absorb it too,
And all the glow that should be fed
On honey, apricots, and dew.

Forgotten now her mannered charm,
The coverlet she posed upon:
She eats the bright meat as a storm
Devours a crimson sun.

Controlled Distribution

I was very much interested in the article appearing in your issue of June 27, and feel very highly pleased that your paper gave good coverage to the Associated Press story, "Gas Dealers, Oil Firms Pressure Advisory Councils."

I was also interested in the comments of the executive director of the local gasoline dealers' association in the District in which he is reported as stating that in no case was a local dealer unable to obtain standard brand gasoline because of refusal to handle accessory products.

The writer has been and is a member of the automotive industry for close to 40 years. My acquaintance is not local but national in scope and, having the closest contact with dealers in tires, automobiles and automobile accessories, I should know the position and the trend that is taking place in the automotive industry as to controlled distribution. In fact, it is increasing by leaps and bounds in all segments of the automotive servicing field, and I am amazed that in the District the independents, as reported, are free of directed policies as to merchandising.

The contrary was reported to me from New England within the past two weeks, a similar report came to me from responsible sources in Illinois, and some months back a similar report from independents in Alabama. Conclusive proof of what is now taking place will be found in the Record of the Senate Committee Print No. 3, Small Business Problems of the Tire and Rubber Manufacturers and Retailers. This document totaling 152 pages was prepared by the Senate Small Business Committee after a national survey they made in the early spring of 1941. The extent of controlled distribution of rubber, oil, batteries, etc., will be found in the congressional committee reports, both Small Business and Banking and Currency, 1943.

In fact, as it appears from actual records, free enterprise has disappeared in the automotive servicing field.

Low-Flying Planes

I am somewhat amazed by the sheer nerve of the air transport company managers. I am waked up, as are many others, soon after having fallen asleep on these warm nights, by a two-or four-motored plane that comes down to within 150 to 200 feet of my roof, so close that the house itself vibrates and shudders from the motors.

My amazement is due not so much to their contempt for the rights and comfort of other people—for hundreds and thousands of homes (some of them containing small children who are particularly hard to get back to sleep) are disturbed night after night—but to their failure to recognize that these priviliges are paid for by the general public.

Hardly an airport in the country earns enough to pay operating expenses. The capital costs have all been paid through taxation; and in their accounting airport managers assume that the cost of the land and the expensive construction costs will all be met by subsidy. Weather services, airway costs, beacons, etc. are all paid out of the public treasury. And the public is under the pressure of constant propaganda to increase these subsidies—to pay for expensive landing control systems, to build more of these public nuisances.

Then there is the question of safety, with tons of highly explosive fuel being hurled at one's home and within a few feet of the roof, so that a slight error, or inattention, on the part of the pilot would wipe out half a dozen or more families.

Perhaps this may be sufficient to become a campaign issue; certainly it would seem likely that a shrewd politician would have little difficulty in organizing the not-so-silent opposition that is widespread.

Drunk Driving Crime

The news of a shocking accident last week 4 miles west of Shelby, N. C., in which 11 people were injured, two of them at least critically, by a drunken driver losing controls of his truck, impels me to write and suggest that a fatal accident caused by a drunken driver be made a criminal offense, and the driver tried for murder.

I think the sooner we hang a few of these irresponsible criminals—for they are that the moment they step into a driver's seat while drunk—the sooner such accidents will be prevented. There is entirely too much token severity in the matter of merely taking away a driver's permit for a season, and everyone knows the driver just goes on driving without a permit.

Let a few such drivers be tried for murder, and even in a drunken haze others will think twice before taking the wheel. How long will it be before our roads are safe from these criminal gluttons?

Fare Increase

It was with reluctance that we accepted Capital Transit's last fare raises to $1.50 for passes and 10 cents singles, respectively, hoping, of course, that it would give us better service. It has not come. In fact, up North Capitol way, especially on Sundays, it is apparently worse. Out toward Mount Rainier and Benning rd. cars come fairly regularly.

Now, Capital Transit is asking for another raise, giving the old songs: "high salaries," "higher maintenance" and the inflation bugbear as reasons. The lethargy of the people of Washington, judging from past incidents, gives the green light to the PUC to raise prices.

I am not unmindful of the businessman's troubles—for many years I have been both an employe and an employer. As an accountant I know how to figure "book" profit and loss and have learned some of the tricks to confuse and blind the public.

The time has come to stop price raising, regardless, and about face toward lower prices. All of us—the public, the utilities, the rich and poor will have to take their share of losses as well as profits—and we might as well face these facts now, 1948, and start to adjust safely downward—or be shoved off into oblivion!

"Six-Cent Air Mail"

Your June 29 editorial on six-cent air mail postage deplores the waste of postal posters which feature such intriguing messages as "Put Wings on Your Letter for a Nickel." Why not use these posters adding a postscript "Pin the Propeller on for a Penny"?

Hyderabad And The Indian Union

As a friend of the United Nations and an advocate of Indo-American collaboration, I feel greatly concerned over the fact that the United Nations' handling of the dispute between India and Pakistan has prejudiced the status of the U. N. as an impartial body, so far as India is concerned.

Friends of the United Nations in India, including even persons such as Mr. Nehru, are beginning to be more and more strongly of the opinion that Anglo-American pressure is responsible for the United Nations favoring Pakistan in the issue of Kashmir. This Indians feel, is being done to please the Pan-Islamist bloc of powers—Pakistan is one of them—which may ally themselves with the Anglo-American powers against Soviet Russia.

In favoring Pakistan, the United Nations is ignoring valid and fundamental legal issues against Pakistan, which country has, beyond doubt, been accessory to aggression against India's territorial integrity. It is clear to all impartial observers that Pakistan's actions regarding Kashmir have been far more aggressive and contrary to all rules of intercourse between two friendly powers, than those of Yugoslavia and other Balkan states (satellites of Soviet Russia) in relation to the Greek rebels.

Nevertheless, the stand of the U. N. in favoring a plebiscite in Kashmir while invading forces are still in the country is opposed to the precedents established in many cases, especially opposed to the stand of the U. N. regarding the demands of the Greek rebels for a plebiscite. Indians are openly accusing the U. N. of having a double standard of international morality—one favoring the present Greek government because Greece is regarded by many Indians as a satellite of Anglo-American powers, and the other for India, which has declared through its Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru, that it will remain neutral in any dispute between the USSR and the Anglo-American powers.

Now it has been reported that the autocratic and tyrannical government of Hyderabad, which until recently was a dependency of the British government of India, will bring up the issue of its independence before the United Nations. It is refusing to join the Indian Union, while practically all the other princely states have done so, acknowledging the suzerainty of the Union of India in matters of national defense, foreign affairs and international commerce.

It is recognized by all important authorities on international law, such as Hall, Oppenheimer and others, that none of the "Native States of India" did enjoy any of the fundamental rights of sovereignty and were absolutely under British control. Today, therefore, Hyderabad does not enjoy independent status, and recognition of independent status for it will legitimately be regarded by the government of India as an unfriendly act. In this connection, it should be remembered that even the government of Pakistan has accepted the position that the Dominion of India continues the international personality of the undivided India and that Pakistan is only a seceding state. Hyderabad's action will accordingly be regarded as secession from India, parallel to the action of the Southern States in 1861.

American statesmen, not to speak of the American public, should realize that just as the United States will never tolerate Texas or California or any other State or part of a State declaring its independence outside of the Federal jurisdiction or exercising independent authority in matters of national defense, foreign policy and international economic affairs, similarly the Republic of the Union of India will under no circumstances allow the state of Hyderabad to assert its independence outside India's federal jurisdiction, nor will it tolerate any move on the part of Hyderabad toward joining any other state, which will be detrimental to the national security and vital interests of India.

There is every indication in the news from New Delhi that acute tension between Hyderabad and India is already tending toward a conflict. Hyderabad's efforts to set up an independent state is similar to the efforts of the Azerbaijan rebels to assert that region's independence from Persia. It should be thoroughly understood that if the United Kingdom or any other power encourages Hyderabad actively—such as supplying arms, officers and financial aid—or in any other manner, to act against Indian interests, the government of India, to protect its vital interests and national security, will be compelled to regard such actions as unfriendly. Under these circumstances it will be wise for the U. N. not to meddle in such matters as may be regarded as India's internal affairs, involving territorial integrity and national security.

All far-sighted Indian statesmen are most eager to cooperate with the United Nations and to cultivate the friendship of the Anglo-American powers. But international friendship among nations is based on reciprocity and it is hardly necessary for me to emphasize that the development of a suspicious and unfriendly attitude on the part of the people of India toward the U. N. and the Anglo-American powers will have very far-reaching consequences in the present disturbing relations among great powers, and adversely affect the cause of world peace. It is to be hoped that the Anglo-American powers may not act in such a fashion as may deepen the existing feeling of distrust in India.

No Shrine For Peace

By Malvina Lindsay

Homeless U. N.

ENGROSSED though we shall be these next two days in motor trips, picnics, swim suits, hot dogs, some of us will occasionally remember that it is the Fourth of July. We may even for fleeting moments think pridefully of our national heritage. Through our minds will flash spirit-stirring visions . . . the dome of the Capitol against the sky . . . the towering shaft of the Washington Monument . . . Mount Vernon looming serenely above the Potomac . . . the patient bronze Lincoln at his pillared retreat . . . the White House, chaste and hospitable, free of walls and turrets, generously offering its beauty to all passersby . . . the dazzling columns of the Jefferson Memorial, reminder of the man who wrote the immortal statement of the American faith.

Those far away from the Capital will, if they give the meaning of the day a thought, find the whole white City of Washington fleeting across their minds' eye. For people, as the organizers and builders of religions have well realized, must anchor their beliefs and aspirations to material symbols. And these must have beauty and tradition.

HOWEVER, those of us who tomorrow may reach in thought from the blessings of liberty to our only insurance for this freedom—peace—will grope among confused images. If we try to expand our patriotism to thinking of a world brought into unity what do we see?

A great squat, drab building sprawling over the flat terrain near Lake Success—a former gyroscope factory that once manufactured weapons of war . . . a place whose interior seems at first only a labyrinth of low-ceilinged corridors . . . a place well lighted, well cooled, efficiently remodeled, effectively decorated with the flags and symbols of the nations, but certainly not a Mecca to give lift to the soul of a visiting pilgrim. Only a green plot outside circled with the flags of 55 countries gives the visitor a feeling that here is something beyond the horizon.

That is the headquarters of the United Nations to which this summer—as last—visitors will come by thousands hoping for an enlarging experience, expecting to take home "something to remember," an image around which their "one world" faith can be draped.

Not until the United Nations has a permanent home of enough beauty and meaning to bulwark the interests, hopes and affections of the plain people of the earth who come to visit it can it become much of a reality to them. Its millions of well wishers in the United States especially need to have their faith in its principles strengthened by a building worthy of being a shrine of peace.

LEADERS at Lake Success realize this. Hence their deep disappointment, even alarm, over the action of the House of Representatives in sidetracking in the last legislative jam the 65-million-dollar loan for the headquarters. It had been planned that at least the Secretariat building would have been completed by 1949, and ready for the visitors of next summer.

Now even granting that U. N. headquarters remain in this country, and that the next Congress shows any interest in a permanent U. N. home, there will be a building delay of from one to two years. Of course the principles on which the United Nations was founded:

". . . to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war . . . to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small . . . to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom . . ."

will live on together with the "certain inalienable rights . . . life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and all the other great aspirations that have moved men to make history. But their growth would be greatly speeded and strengthened if some visible symbol of them were to begin to rise.

After all, the American Capitol, shrine of representative government and the White House, democracy's fireside, rose nearly a century and a half ago as the first buildings to symbolize the unity of what was then a weak, wrangling federation of States.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Truman's Cheerful Front

THE PRESIDENT stands behind his desk and, in his resolute, somewhat high-pitched, Missouri voice, reads a statement denouncing the feeble housing bill passed in the closing hours of the Congress. When he finishes reading, he pauses and asks if there are any questions.

Childs

He is wearing a summer suit of brown corded material and a white shirt with a brown-and-white-checked tie. His face has a ruddy, healthy color and he seems able to laugh with the relaxed air of one who is certain of his future course.

In three years Harry S. Truman has learned a great deal. He has learned to play the game of give-and-take with the 100 or more reporters who crowd into his oval office for this press conference.

They want to know what he really feels about the coming political campaign. Does he think he will have enough delegates to be nominated on the first ballot? Yes, of course. What does he think of the Dewey-Warren ticket? They'll find that out later; he likes Warren but he will defeat the Dewey-Warren ticket.

And then comes the question that everyone in the room has expected: Do you have any intention of retiring as a candidate? None at all, says the President, and for a moment he shows his discomfiture. That, he adds, is foolish question No. 1.

PROBABLY not one of the 100 or more men and women facing him believes that he can be reelected to the office he holds. All the polls, all the portents show that his chances are slim indeed. But the man behind the desk, parrying the questions that come thick and fast, gives no sign that he knows this.

The thoughts of the prisoner in the White House, and every President is in one degree or another a prisoner, are his own. The facade that Mr. Truman presents to the world is one of cheerful optimism and resolution.

Some of those who see him frequently on politics are doubtful of the reality of this brave front. But they have no way of knowing what is in the back of the President's mind.

They do know, however, that those who are trying to get him to retire are going about it in a way calculated to have exactly the opposite effect. Statements urging the President to step aside and insisting on the availability of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower help to persuade him of the correctness of his conviction of two and a half months ago—that he cannot be a quitter.

The only appeal that might touch him would come from an old friend who would put it on the basis of loyalty to the party. The time for that kind of appeal, however, has probably gone by. Unless the President is concealing a secret determination to retire, and the chances of that seem slight indeed, he will go to Philadephia to accept the nomination of his party for the Presidency.

ON MARSHAL TITO and on Russia the President replies, "No comment." From unhappy experience earlier in his Administration, he has learned to hold back offhand judgments that might have world-wide repercussions. Now and then he forgets this restraint, as in his rear platform remark that Uncle Joe Stalin was a good old fellow who was unfortunately a prisoner of the Politburo.

Back of the President's frequent "No comment" on foreign affairs is a feeling that in the present slump in his popularity rating, he is being given less than justice for the results of the firm foreign policy that began with the Truman Doctrine. The break between Moscow and Marshal Tito is seen as one of the results of this policy.

No news in a long time has caused such satisfaction at the White House. It is considered a refutation of the prophets of gloom—among them many commentators—who took a dim view of the intervention in Greece and Turkey.

Now the policy of firmness, with the buttress of the Marshall Plan, is paying off. The country will undoubtedly hear a lot more about this during the campaign.

The new self-confidence, whatever its real depth may be, is a well-timed political manifestation. The President stands behind his desk as the reporters file out, nodding and smiling at acquaintenances. Unless there is an abrupt change or some unforeseen political accident, this is the cheerful front the Democratic candidate will present to the country in the months ahead. Perhaps not until he sits down to write his own life story will we know what he is really thinking.

Firecracker Danger Warning Given; and Hints to Heedless

With the observation that firecrackers, though banned in the District, "seem to find their way into the hands of children" here, the Health Department yesterday warned that serious injuries may result if "inexperienced persons" use them.

A doctor should be called at once when "severe burns to hands, face, and eyes" occur, health officials said. First-aid treatment should be given.

For burned eyes or other tender membranes, use a neutral solution of calamine lotion. For burns on hands, arms and legs, apply unguentine or similar salve or a strong solution of tea (tannic acid).

If lacerations and other wounds accompany the burns, treat them with tincture of iodine.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King reminded residents that it's illegal in the District to sell, have possession of, or use fireworks that contain powder or other explosive materials. (This includes cap pistols, Roman candles, sky rockets, bombs, torpedoes and firecrackers, he said.)

It's all right, however, to sell or use the following, King said: sparklers, torches, fountains, dip sticks, nonpoisonous "snakes," colored lights, and toy pistols of the "friction type."

Speaking of holiday celebrating in general, Health Officer George C. Ruhland offered these cautions: Don't overexercise . . . or exercise too soon after eating . . . or eat or drink too much . . . or overexpose the body to the sun.

Bank Case Verdict Upheld

Asheville, N. C., July 2 (AP).—The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the Richmond District Court's conviction of Hugh Namon Rakes on charges of aiding and abetting in willful misapplication of funds of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Fredericksburg, Va.

The opinion, written by Associate Justice E. Barrett Prettyman of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, cites that Rakes was indicted and tried on 13 of 20 transactions involving approximately $240,000.

The opinion states that Rakes, a wealthy Virginia dairy farmer, was guilty of juggling his accounts with the aid of a bank official and engaged in check kiting for several months, during which time he bought properties valued at about $1,615,000.

The Circuit Court opinion says Rakes then secured from an insurance company a one-million-dollar loan with which he paid his debts, balanced his bank accounts and started out again along the same line of procedure. At this point, the bank examiners entered the picture, the opinion says, discovered the irregularities and Rakes was arrested.

Presiding with Judge Prettyman were Senior Circuit Judge John J. Parker of Charlotte, Circuit Judge Armistead M. Dobie of Charlottesville, Va., and District Judge A. D. Barksdale of Lynchburg, Va.

Bank Robber Escapes From Okla. Prison

McAlester, Okla., July 2 (U.P.).—George Kimes, surviving member of a family robbery gang which terrorized Southwestern small town bankers in the 1920's, escaped from McAlester Penitentiary today.

Kimes, who walked away from his job as keeper of the prison bloodhounds, was serving his twenty-second year in prison.

Illinois Makes New Effort To Free Lifer

By The Associated Press

Illinois yesterday resumed efforts to get the Supreme Court to release a man serving a life term in the State's own prison.

Attorney General George T. Barrett of Illinois filed a petition asking for review of a State judge's refusal to release the prisoner, Tony Marino, on a habeas corpus writ. The judge is William R. Dusher of the Winnebago County Circuit Court.

Marino has served 23 years of his life sentence, imposed on him when he was 18 years old. He was accused of killing an aged janitor.

Last year Maronio appealed to the Supreme Court, saying he had no attorney at the trial and could not speak English at that time. He said one of the arresting officers acted as interpreter. Barrett backed up Marino's appeal.

The Supreme Court ruled Marino had been denied his rights under the Federal Constitution. It sent the case back to Dusher with directions to "take proceedings" in line with its ruling.

Barrett took this to mean immediate release of Marino on the old sentence and a new trial on the murder charge. But Dusher said a "complete hearing" was the next step. Barrett asked the Supreme Court to order Dusher to release Marino. The request was denied last March.

Dusher then held a hearing and last April 3 decided against Marino's and Barrett's contention that the lifer should be given a release on habeas corpus papers.

In appealing to the Supreme Court from this April 3 denial, Barrett stated:

"The process of condemning a defendant to life imprisonment on a capital charge when he is a minor, illiterate and unable to speak, read, write or understand English, and at the complete mercy of the State, should be judged by standards higher than those applied here by the State."

No action is expected to be taken by the high court until its new term begins next October.

Amherst Trustees Reject Alumni Red Curb Plan

St. Louis, July 2 (AP).—Amherst College trustees have unanimously rejected the proposal of a graduate committee designed to prevent any Communist activities on the campus at Amherst, Mass., E. Quenton Johnson of St. Louis, chairman of the committee, said yesterday.

The committee had asked the trustees to rule against any faculty member taking part on Communist Party activities and to provide proof no faculty member is a member of the Communist Party.

Several weeks ago, Johnson said, the committee wrote the board of trustees charging there has been "coddling of Communist activities on the faculty."

Chief complaint, Johnson said, was the appearance of a faculty member's name on the sponsor's list in a newspaper advertisement protesting against the Mund-Nixon bill which sought to outlaw subversive organizations.

U. S. Made Member Of Health Organization

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 2 (AP).—The United States was unanimously accepted today as a member of the World Health Organization.

The legality of American membership had been in doubt since U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie refused to accept the U. S. Congress' conditional ratification of the WHO constitution.

Soviet delegate N. A. Vinogradov today formally proposed acceptance of the United States.

Crash Victim Dies

Cumberland, Md., July 2 (AP).—Herbert O. Springer, 27-year-old student pilot, died last night of injuries suffered in a plane crash two days ago at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Price-Fixing Suit Accuses 500 Oculists

Chicago, July 2 (AP).—The Government today named nearly 500 eye specialists throughout the Nation as defendants in its price-fixing suit against Bausch & Lomb Optical Co., and three subsidiaries.

The oculists named in a petition filed in Federal Court by the Anti-trust Division are accused of accepting rebates on glasses prescribed for their patients.

Bausch & Lomb headquarters are in Rochester, N. Y.

Previously the Government had named some 2700 eye doctors throughout the country in suits against Bausch & Lomb and the American Optical Co., of Southbridge, Mass.

The petition filed today asks that the eye doctors named be compelled either to agree they will be bound by whatever verdict may result from the suits or else contest the actions as individual defendants.

The Government charges the optical companies and the oculists violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by fixing prices on eye glasses. The alleged price-fixing, the suits charge, was through rebating to the eye doctors approximately one-half the total price paid by their patients for glasses.

Virginia oculists involved in today's action include: Carroll E. Foley, Front Royal; H. G. Preston, Harrisonburg; and A. T. Hawthorne, 110 Braddock st., and George Snarr, 27 W. Boscowen st., both of Winchester.

Fox Rancher's Bill Against U. S. Pocket Vetoed

President Truman yesterday disclaimed any Government responsibility for the failure of 18 vixen to produce an expected 64 fox pups in 1939.

The President pocket vetoed a bill to pay $3810 to Adney W. Gray, opperell, Mass. After the New England hurricane in September, 1938, the Forest Service contracted for portable sawmills to manufacture salvaged logs into lumber. One such mill was operated by A. L. Trueax near Gray's ranch.

The "unusual disturbances" resulting from operation of the mill, the President said, "so annoyed and unnerved the vixen, that claimant was able to realize only 12 pups which could be raised to salable size."

The President said that the contractor under the contract "assumed all obligations and responsibilities for damage" to property arising from the sawmill's operation.

Statehood Hearings Planned for Hawaii

The Senate Insular Affairs Committee announced yesterday it will begin a hearing on Hawaiian Statehood legislation in Honolulu November 23.

Minor

The new president formerly served as chairman of the society's committee on public health and held the office of first vice president. In addition to his private practice and duties at Emergency Hospital, he is an associate in medicine at George Washington University School of Medicine, and a teaching consultant at Walter Reed General Hospital.

He also serves as consultant to Episcopal Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital and in a similar capacity at the Washington Home for Incurables.

Rent Control Removal At Ocean View Denied

Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods yesterday announced he had denied a recommendation for removal of rent controls at Ocean View, Va.

The Norfolk rent advisory board made the recommendation as Ocean View is part of the Hampton Roads defense-rental area.

Woods said the evidence submitted failed to show that the demand for rental housing had been reasonably met. He also said the board did not submit a stenographic transcript of the hearing on the proposal, as required by law, but instead sent minutes of the meeting.

Jolson, Wife Proclaim Pride in Baby Boy

Los Angeles, July 2 (AP).—Al Jolson and his youthful wife said today they were proud to become parents of a 6-month-old baby, Asa Albert Jolson, by virtue of an adoption court order.

Mrs. Jolson is the former Erle Chenault Galbraith of the films. They said they have had the baby since it was 5 days old.

The singer and his wife were married in March of 1943. At that time he gave his age as 56 and she listed hers as 22.

The President's Calling List

By The Associated Press

President Truman saw the following White House callers yesterday:

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

12 m.—Dr. Jeronimo Remorino, Ambassador of Argentina.

Consent Decree Ends Anti-Trust Suit Over Nickel

New York, July 2 (AP).—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina today signed a consent decree ending a civil antitrust suit brought by the Government against International Nickel Co. of Canada, Ltd., and its subsidiary, International Co., Inc., of Delaware.

The action, filed May 16, 1946, charged monopoly and restraint of trade in nickel ores, nickel and nickel products.

The Government's complaint charged that the companies had obtained domination of the importation, manufacture, distribution and sale of nickel ores, nickel and nickel products in this country. It charged the companies obtained control of 90 per cent of the trade.

Restrictive agreements with German and French nickel producers protected and fortified this monopoly, the Government charged.

John D. Hill, special Assistant United States Attorney General, said today that the defendants, under the consent decree, are required to sell for a period of 20 years, basic nickel raw materials to producers of rolling mill products containing nickel. Hill said this would give potential competitors access to needed materials on a nondiscriminatory basis.

Farmers' Share . . . Of Food Dollar Drops to 50 Cents

The Nation's farmers got exactly half of every dollar spent for food during May, the Agriculture Department said yesterday.

It was the lowest share for farmers in five years.

The rest of the dollar went into marketing costs, the department reported.

The farmer's share of the food dollar has been between 51 and 55 cents every month since July, 1943. It began to declin from a 55-cent high last January following the Feruary break in farm prices.

The prewar level of the farmers' share averaged 40 cents during 1935-'39 and reached a depression low of 29 cents in June, 1932.

During the first five months of this year food marketing charges increased 11 per cent, the department said.

McClelland is being held for trial here on two murder charges in connection with the death of the Alexandria, Va., couple near Omaha last August. He confessed to both slayings at the Colorado State Penitentiary May 14.

Local churches also have been asked by the Committee on Religious Life in the Nation's Capital to note the one hundredth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Washington Monument.

Biblical Scholars Completing Revision of Old Testament

Copyright, 1948, N. Y. Herald Tribune

New Haven, Conn.—After 10 years of intense work fifteen Biblical scholars have almost completed a new revision of the Old Testament intended to make it "easier to read, clearer and more accurate" than the American Standard or the King James versions. The revision will contain fewer words than former translations.

Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean of the Yale Divinity School and chairman of the revision committee, now reports that 731 of the 929 chapters of the Old Testament, or more than 75 per cent, have been revised and approved in the first draft. To meet the publishing date set for the fall of 1951, the scholars must complete the two books of Chronicles, Nehemiah and Micah, and finish work already begun on the Books of Job, Isaiah and Jeremiah within two years.

King James Revision

Although the new translation is called a revision of the American Standard version of the Old Testament, Dr. Weigle admitted that it really was a revision of the King James version. And since the latter translation is regarded as one of the classics of English literature, many persons view any attempt to change its wording as wasteful tinkering that will only destroy the beauty and power of the Old Testament.

While recognizing the greatness of the King James version, Dr. Weigle contends that it is at times erroneous and misleading, containing phrases that are no longer clear because the words have changed or lost their original meaning.

For those who might worry about what may happen to the great body of poetry in the Old Testament, including the Book of Job, the Song of Solomon, the Psalms and the Book of Proverbs, Dr. Weigle said, "I see no reason why people should think that we will destroy the poetry. I think they'll recognize the same poetic values in the revision that are found in the King James version."

As an indication of how the new translation will be received, Dr. Weigle mentioned the fact that the sale of the Revised Standard version of the New Testament, published in 1946 by Thomas Nelson & Sons, 385 Madison ave., New York, has reached the two-million mark. When the Old Testament is published it will be combined with the New Testament to form the Revised Standard version of the Bible.

The American Standard Bible Committee, the revising group, was named by the International Council of Religious Education, with which the educational boards of 40 major Protestant denominations of the United States and Canada are associated.

Although the American revision of 1901 was a more accurate and faithful translation than the King James version, it lost some of the qualities that gave the seventeenth-century Bible a supreme place in English literature. The present revision committee was directed to recover the "simplicity, directness, literary beauty and spiritual power" of the King James version, while maintaining the accuracy of the later American Bible.

A critical edition of the Hebrew Bible, edited by Rudolf Kittel and published in 1937, is being used as the basic source for the new translation.

Although Dr. Weigle refused to release any of the revisions made thus far, he said he would indicate some of the obsolete words that will certainly be changed.

In the King James Version, Job xli: 18 reads: "By his neesings a light doth shine, and his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn."

Dr. Weigle doubts if the average reader can make sense out of this verse, since the meaning of the word "neesings" is not clear. The first draft of the revision reads:

"His sneezings flash for light,
And his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn."

Dr. Weigle wonders how many persons know that the "ouches of goid" mentioned in Exodus xxviii:11 means a filigree setting made of gold, or that the "hall of the tent" with which Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, slays Sisera in Judges iv:21 is really a tent peg.

Bishop Swint Not to Attend Beauty Show

Moundsville, W. Va., July 2 (AP).—The Most Rev. John J. Swint, Catholic bishop of the Wheeling Diocese, today declined an invitation to the Miss West Virginia beauty pageant next month.

Bishop Swint announced he would excommunicate any Catholic girl who participated in an elimination contest at Wheeling. Two girls dropped out but 18-year-old Mariruth Ford, a Catholic, stayed in the contest and won it.

Bishop Swint has not indicated if he will take any further action.

Meantime, sponsors invited him to Moundsville to see that the State-wide elimination for the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City "is on a high moral plane."

"I have no doubt of your intentions," Bishop Swint replied by letter. "But I still contend that if the display of nakedness were eliminated the whole thing would fall to pieces. I shall not be present. The pictures in the papers alone are enough to condemn the whole affair.

"It may interest you to know that I have received 125 letters from all over the country, predominantly from non-Catholics.

"Of these, 89 congratulated and commended me for the stand I have taken. In opposition were 36 letters, but almost half of these were merely scurrilous and very ignorant attacks on the Catholic Church and Catholic clergy."

Dr. Franklin Elected Methodist Bishop

Columbia, S. C., July 2 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Marvin Augustus Franklin of Birmingham, Ala., was elected a bishop here today by the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church.

Dr. Franklin, pastor of Highlands Church at Birmingham, was named on the sixth ballot as conference delegates voted for two new bishops.

He received 233 votes. Only 197 were necessary.

Next were Dr. Roy H. Short of Nashville, Tenn., with 163 votes, and Dr. William A. Smart of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., with 132.

Dr. John W. Branscomb of Orlando, Fla., was fourth with 61 votes, followed by Dr. James A. Bays of Knoxville, Tenn., with 18.

One of the new bishops will succeed the late J. Lloyd Decell of Jackson, Miss. The other will fill a new post recommended because of increased church membership.

The Gallup Poll

Protestants Divided on Union Plan

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 2.—Protestants throughout the United States are fairly evenly divided on the question whether the leading denominations of the Protestant church should combine together into one church.

Proposals for such unification have been made many times in recent years by various church officials. The most recent to propose it was the Quadrennial General Conference of Methodists in Boston last month. Bishop Garfield Bromley Oxnam of New York devoted a considerable part of his keynote address at the conference to exploring the possibilities of union with other Protestant churches. The Methodists claim to be the world's largest Protestant church.

The idea of union was put before Protestant churchgoers in all States in a poll by the Institute as follows:

Do you think it would or would not be a good thing for all Protestant churches in the United States to combine into one church?

The vote of those listing themselves as Protestants:

Favor idea	42%
Do not favor	47
No opinion	11

The idea of a united Protestant church seems to be gaining a little in popularity, although slowly. A somewhat larger proportion of Protestants favor it today than did in a similar survey conducted by the Institute 11 years ago. In March, 1937, after John D. Rockefeller, jr. had made the proposal, the reaction was as follows:

1937 Poll

Favor idea	40%
Do not favor	51
No opinion	9

Support for the idea of a unified Protestant church varies widely from one section of the country to another. In the New England and Middle Atlantic States a majority of those with opinions on the subject approve the idea. In the East Central section opinion is equally divided. Opposition to the proposal is strongest in the South.

Whether unification comes or not, the two big problems facing churches today, in the opinion of the general public, are (1) how to improve the quality and interest of the services, and (2) how to stimulate interest of youth in the church's programs.

The public lists the following:

Make services better	17%
More programs to arouse interest of youth	9
More social functions	8
Better leaders, men of higher caliber	7
Make religion more practical, more down to earth	6
More evangelism, drive for members	6
Make churches less secular, more democratic	4
Less hypocrisy	3
Miscellaneous	5
Nothing needed	4
Don't know	32

SEC Abolishes 3 Ranking Posts In Reorganizing

By The Associated Press

In its first organization change since 1942, the Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday abolished three top legal offices and reestablished the post of general counsel.

Offices dropped were solicitor, chief counsel of the corporation finance division, and chief counsel of the trading and exchange division.

Edward H. Cashion, former chief counsel of the corporation finance division, was named director of the trading and exchange section. He will fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of James A. Treanor, jr.

A newly created post of associate director of this division will be filled by Anthony H. Lund, former assistant director.

Roger S. Foster, former solicitor, becomes commission general counsel. Lewis Loss, former chief counsel of the trading and exchange division, will become associate general counsel.

Nazis Spent $90,000 Entertaining Arabs

Nuernberg, Germany, July 2 (AP).—The German Foreign Office shelled out a lush $90,000 in entertaining Arab leaders during the war, an American war crimes court was told today in a trial of German diplomats.

The court received in evidence expense accounts listing handouts to the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, and Rashid Ali al Gailani, former Iraq Premier, while they were refugees in Germany during the war.

1000 Drown in Floods; 200,000 Homeless

Foochow, China, June 29 (Delayed) (AP).—A sudden flash flood in the Min River in the past three days drowned 1000 persons here, left 200,000 homeless and destroyed 10,000 buildings.

Thousands of persons, perched on rooftops, were swept into the stream. Small boat owners paddled alongside and took off those who could pay 4,000,000 yuan (approximately $1) to be rescued. Those unable to pay were left to drift with their homes.

Parks Group Weekend Program Set

Stay-at-homes over the Fourth of July weekend can choose between a 'snake walk," a lecture on the history of the Jefferson Memorial, a nature ramble, or a horse-drawn barge trip on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, courtesy of the National Capital Parks which arranged the varied program.

Park Naturalist Drew W. Chick will lead nature lovers through Rock Creek Park around Fort DeRussey today. The group will meet at 3 p. m. at Military rd. and Oregon ave. nw.

Also today at 8:30 p. m. Harris Collingwood, nationally known forester, will give an illustrated lecture on "The Sawtooth Wilderness of Idaho and Colorado's Snowmass" at the Campfire site in Rock Creek Park, 16th and Kennedy sts. nw.

Historian Stanley W. McClure will discuss the Declaration of Independence and the background of the Jefferson Memorial in a talk at 2:30 p. m. Sunday on the steps of the Memorial.

The "Canal Clipper," Chesapeake and Ohio Canal barge, will leave the Foundry Branch dock, Canal rd., Foxhall rd., and M st. nw., at 2 p. m. today and Sunday. The barge will return at 4 p. m. on both days from lock 5, Brookmont. Dean Hausrath will point out items of historical interest on the Saturday trip, and Kenny Dale will discuss nature en route with the Sunday group. Barge tickets are on sale at the Capital Transit Co. office, 1416 F st. nw.

A display of local flora and fauna, plus rocks of the region, will be on view from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. today and Sunday in the Old Tavern at Great Falls, Md. Park naturalists will conduct special one-to-five-hour tours of the falls area for groups of 15 or more persons if arrangements are made in advance with the park naturalist's office in the Interior Department.

Dewey Approves 65 Million Loan For U. N. Site

Albany, N. Y., July 2 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today extended full support to the proposed 65-million-dollar United States loan to the United Nations for construction of a U. N. headquarters in New York City.

The Republican presidential nominee, in a statement, said he hoped and believed the loan would be "carried out." He noted that the United States "has committed itself to advance" the necessary funds.

The loan authorization was approved by the Senate in the last session but was tacked to an omnibus bill in the House and died.

Md. Veteran Office Warned On 'Politics'

Annapolis, Md., July 2 (AP).—Governor Lane today released without comment a report of the Hancock Committee warning the Maryland Veterans Commission to stay out of "the internal politics" of veterans' groups.

State Service Officer Richard C. Manning "used very poor judgment in singling out" American Legion conventions to attend at State expense, the special investigating unit said.

The State service officer "should not become overly engaged in the internal politics of veterans organizations nor should he use the facilities of the Maryland Veterans Commission for this purpose," the Hancock Committee advised.

In a reply to the Governor, the Veterans Commission said it had already resolved June 4 that employes "shall not take such an active part in the political activities of any veterans' organization as will or might incur the enmity or ill will of any veteran."

To Seek Authorization

Chairman Joseph A. Cantrel said the commission also resolved that in the future travel funds to attend veterans' organization meetings would be "strictly prohibited unless and until the same may be formally authorized by resolution of this commission."

Lane named the three-man investigating committee last year under a legislative resolution calling for a full inquiry into the handling of veterans' affairs.

Chairman Alexander K. Hancock of Takoma Park is Montgomery County comptroller. Other members are Broker Paul Sullivan and Attorney Francis J. Valle of Baltimore.

The present method of handling applications for relief "is greatly inefficient and leaves too much opportunity for fraud," the investigators said.

Method Criticized

"There appeared to be no effort to investigate the real need of the applicant," they added. "In the majority of cases it was learned that the applicant was judged on his personal ability to impress the interviewer of his need.

"The State service officer stated that he could often judge a need of an applicant merely by conversation."

The 22-page report proposed that the membership of the Advisory Maryland Veterans Committee be increased to include heads of all veterans' organizations in Maryland recognized by the Veterans Administration.

The report noted:

"Cooperation of the commission and its staff with veterans seeking aid has been good.

"There does not, however, seem to be much cooperation between the Maryland Veterans Commission and its advisory board. Some members of the advisory board did not even know that they held that office."

Two Men Charged With Murder of Drum Majorette

Columbiana, Ala., July 2 (U.P.).—Two men today were charged with the murder of a 15-year-old band majorette who was killed in a log cabin secluded in the hills south of Birmingham.

Sheriff L. T. Bozeman said both men admitted having intimate relations with Ellie May Barganier of Birmingham before she was shot with a Japanese pistol.

Harold Ferguson, 23, and Jack W. Hess, 22, both of Birmingham, were held without bond on murder warrants sworn out by the girl's father, E. L. Barganier.

Hess said he was toying with the souvenir pistol while Ferguson and the girl were dancing. He said the pistol was discharged accidentally. Ferguson was treated for a bullet wound on a finger of his right hand.

Ober Assailed As 'Bigoted' Probe Leader

Baltimore, July 2 (AP).—The Communist party of Maryland charged today the State's new commission on subversive activities "menaces the liberties and freedom of every Marylander."

A statement issued by a committee set up by Maryland and District of Columbia party leaders at a special meeting here yesterday declared Frank B. Ober, Baltimore attorney who heads the commission, "is himself guilty of subversion, anarchy and despotism under Article 44" of the Maryland Constitution.

Governor Lane on Wednesday named Ober to head a 12-man commission authorized in a resolution passed at the May session of the general assembly.

Ober made a speech before the Maryland Bar Association last week and the Communist statement called it "the most revealing to date by any notorious Red-baiter in our State."

"He attacked the United States Supreme Court with the greatest contempt," the statement continued. "He charged it with being directly reresponsible for the spread of subversive activities because it paid undue attention to free speech and civil rights. Throughout his speech he sneeringly attacked 'free speech fanatics' and in Fascist fashion ridiculed 'free speech protection' . . .

"The very composition of the commission, from which any labor, Negro or single progressive person is excluded, proves that the commission had already made prejudgments based on the bigotry of its chairman.

"It will engage in a colossal witch hunt directed against labor and the progressive movement in Maryland as well as the Communist Party. No good can possibly come out of it."

Hope Urges End Of Conservation Of Grain Program

By The Associated Press

Chairman Hope (R., Kans.) of the House Agriculture Committee, demanded yesterday that the grain conservation program be ended immediately in view of this year's bumper wheat crop. "There is no excuse now for having restrictions on grain when we have so much," Hope told a reporter.

In letters to Secretaries of Agriculture, State and Commerce, he asked for a swift close-out of the program set up last fall by the cabinet food committee designed to curb human consumption of such cereal products as bread and other bakery goods.

He even urged the Cabinet officers to join in a campaign being started by the baking and flour milling industries to increase the consumption of bread and other bakery products.

Low Countries, Austria Sign ERP Agreements

Brussels, Belgium, July 2 (U.P.) Premier Paul-Henri Spaak and United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk today signed an agreement governing Marshall Plan aid to Belgium.

The Hague, the Netherlands, July 2 (AP).—A bilateral agreement covering Marshall Plan aid to Holland was signed formally today.

Draper Predicts Germany Will Hit Stride in 1949

Berlin, July 2 (U.P.).—William H. Draper, jr., Undersecretary of the Army, predicted today that Germany would be playing a "real part in European recovery" in 1949.

Draper, who served formerly as economic adviser to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, said his inspection of Germany's economic potential had been "highly pleasing."

He said crop prospects, coal and industrial production, and food supply show a marked improvement over a year ago when he left Germany for the United States.

He said industrial production in the western zones now is 50 per cent of the 1936 level, compared with 40 per cent a year ago, and coal production had reached 309,000 tons a day, compared with 240,000 tons daily last year.

"With ERP now part of American foreign policy, the possibility of receiving raw materials now is realistic," he said. "Next year we should see Germany taking a real part in European recovery."

Gillenwater's Homer in 12th Beats Yanks, 2-1

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

HERE TIS, JULY FOURTH almost, and for whatever it is worth you can exhume the old adage that "the team in first place on July 4 wins the pennant." Willing to believe it, of course, are the Cleveland Indians who are tenanted on top in the American League and happy to extract any comfort the old saw offers. Meanwhile, the Indians will continue to place most of their faith in such as Bob Lemon, Bob Feller and their hard-hitting, deadly fielding infield.

POVICH

There's evidence enough to reject the whole idea that the team in front on Independence Day wins the pennant in the American League. Seventeen times in the 47 years of the league's history, the team that ended up with the pennant was somewhere behind first place on July 4. And the most confounding turn of events was, of course, the 1914 National League race when the last-place Braves came from 13 games behind on July 4 to take it all.

But all clubs would prefer to be on top on that date and take their chances on winning the pennant. For the past seven seasons in the American League, it has been a truism that the team in front on July 4 won the pennant, and when he was manager of the Yankees Joe McCarthy debunked the nonsense about the "pressure" being on the pacesetter. "All those clubs behind us would like to get a taste of the 'pressure that's on the Yankees," he used to say.

THE INDIANS, though, may have a worry that doesn't attach itself to other clubs that may be in front on July 4. The last team to blow the pennant after leading the league on that date was the Cleveland club in 1940, which folded and lost the flag to the Tigers in the last days of the season. In three of the 15 years when the Yankees won pennants, they weren't leading on July 4. In two of those three years, it was Cleveland in front.

In fact, the only Cleveland team to win a pennant (1920) wasn't leading on July 4. They were in front on June 1, and yielded the top spot to the Yankees, staging a comeback later in the season to take it all. That was during the managerial regime of the peerless Tris Speaker, and there is a striking likeness to Speaker's team of that year and the Indians of Lou Boudreau this season.

Boudreau is attempting the same tactics of Speaker to a degree never attempted by any other manager in the 28-year interval. Like Speaker, he is juggling his lineup against right and left-handed pitching, particularly his outfielders, and Boudreau's outfielders never know if they are in the lineup until the opposition's pitcher is announced.

BOUDREAU has more outfielders—eight—than any other club in the league. Six of them are left-handed hitters and two of them bat right, and Boudreau is playing the percentages. On the days when a left-hander is opposing the Indians, Allie Clark and Bob Kennedy are in the Cleveland outfield. When, more frequently, it's right-handed pitching they're facing, in goes Boudreau's southpaw-swinging array.

Of late, Boudreau has been using Outfielders Dale Mitchell, Hank Edwards and Walt Judnich in his outfield against right-handers, but he has three other left-handed hitters sitting on the bench. They are Larry Doby, Hal Peck and Thurmond Tucker. The Indians have depth, but Boudreau's juggling is a confession of weakness in his outfield. Better hitters hit all kinds of pitching.

Speaker got his Indians home in 1920 by the same tactics, however. Spoke himself was the only fixture in the outfield, facing all kinds of pitching. Against left-handers he used to insert Joe Wood and Joe Evans in the outfield. Against right-handers it would be Charley Jamieson and Elmer Smith or Jack Graney. Speaker even carried it farther. At first base he alternated George Burns and Doc Johnson, depending on the pitching.

DURING ONE part of the season, Tiger Manager Ty Cobb conceived a scheme for upsetting Speaker's shifts. To get Speaker's left-handed hitters into the line-up, Cobb warmed up his right-hander, George Dauss, before the game in front of the stands. It was to mislead Cleveland. Warming up in secret behind the stands was Southpaw Rube Oldham, who was to take over as soon as Speaker presented his lineup to the umps.

But one of the Cleveland ground crew spotted the hidden warmup of Oldham and reported it to Speaker. The Cleveland manager made a last-minute revision of the lineup before handing it to the umpires, and when "play ball!" was sounded, Cobb was astounded to see two reserve Cleveland pitchers taking up positions in the outfield with another at first base. After Cobb's lineup was officially presented, Speaker put in the players that would serve him best, and the Indians went on to win the game.

Those were the same kind of shenanigans that Bucky Harris used to win the 1924 World Series from the Giants when he maneuvered McGraw's left-handed hitters into the lineup by starting Curly Ogden and pulling Ogden out after he faced two batters, with Southpaw George Mogridge already secretly warmed up.

Falkenburg Wins Title at Wimbledon

By Gayle Talbot

London, July 2 (AP).—Bob Falkenburg, as game a young tennis battler as ever came out of California, got off the floor today to outslug Jack Bromwick of Australia in a stirring five-set final of the Wimbledon's men's singles championship.

Trailing at 3-5 in the deciding set, the 22-year-old American was three times within a point of defeat before he won out over the veteran Aussie by scores of 7-5, 0-6, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, before a packed crowd of 15,000.

The big audience, partial to Bromwich, sat in almost stunned amazement as the tall American from Hollywood, Calif., suddenly bringing his game to its peak, reeled off the last two games without loss of a point.

He wound it up with two blazing service aces which Bromwich didn't even try to reach.

Crowd Against Him

The new champion, a willful youngster, turned the crowd against him by tossing away the second set in too obvious a manner. He didn't even make the motions of trying and it looked pretty silly.

He explained later that he felt he needed the rest after having put a great deal into winning the opening set, but that didn't make the crowd like it any better.

He was hooted occasionally toward the last when he moved too slowly back to the baseline between points. Yet, when he won the final point, the stands rose and gave him the ovation he deserved.

It looked like it was all over when the Aussie broke Bob's serve for the third straight time at the outset of the fifth and took a 4—1 lead. He was within two points of making it 5—1 when he led 30-love in the sixth game. But there Falkenburg braced to hold his serve.

The tense ninth game proved the turning point. There, with defeat looking him in the eye, Bob grimly whaled into Bromwich's service and, after beating off three match points, finally broke through the Aussie's delivery for the first time in two sets. One of Bromwich's match points just hit the tape on the net with a clear court in front of it.

After that, there was no stopping the kid. He whanged over his own serve with the loss of 2 points to pull abreast at 5-5, and then played superbly to race through the next 8 points and tie down the championship won last year by Jack Kramer, now a pro.

Women's Doubles

"I had my chance," Bromwich mourned in the dressing room, "but I didn't take it."

With one title in the bag, America is certain to get another when Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Doris Hart of Miami Fla., meet tomorrow in the women's final. Miss Hart yesterday dethroned Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont of Wilmington, Del., the defending titlist.

An all-American final also was assured in the women's doubles when both Wightman Cup pairs came through in today's semi-finals.

Miss Hart and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd, the defending champs, beat out Britain's Mrs. Jean Nicoll Bostock and Mrs. Mollie Blair, 6—4, 8—6. Miss Brough and Mrs. DuPont ousted another American team, Barbara Scofield of San Francisco and Mrs. Helen Petersen Rihbany of Boston, 7—5, 6—0.

Gardnar Mullay of Miami and Tom Brown of San Francisco battled their way into the men's doubles final with a hard fought victory over Lennart Bergelin of Sweden and Jack Harper of Australia, 1—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, 8—6.

They meet Bromwich and his young Australian partner, Frank Sedgeman, in the final tomorrow and it should be a standoff.

NEW WORLD MARK—This picture shows Herb McKenley of Jamaica bettering by a tenth of a second a world record of :46.0 for the 400-meter run in the National AAU championships yesterday at Milwaukee, Wisc. McKenley ran the race in :45.9. Accepted record of :46.0 is held by Rudolf Herbig of Germany and Grover Klemmer of the United States

McKenley Sprints 400 Meters In 45.9 to Beat World Record

Milwaukee, July 2 (AP).—Herb McKenley of Jamaica, with a burst of blinding speed that carried him 15 yards ahead of the field, bettered the world record for 400 meters today with a time of :45.9 in the AAU National Championships. The accepted record is :46.0 held by Rudolf Harbig of Germany and Grover Klemmer of the United States.

Mckenley hade his sensational mark in the first heat of the senior 400 meter trials.

The race was run in staggered lanes around the Marquette University track. There was a brisk quartering wind, and there was every indication that conditions were standard, which would pave the way to official acceptance of the almost incredible time.

"I figured that if I could do the quarter in 46 flat, I can cut 1 or 2 tenths under it in the 400 meters," said McKenley.

McKenley won by a full 15 yards over Joe Nebelon of Washington State College, with Orval Johnson of the University of Michigan a close third.

The world record of 46.0 was set by Harbig on August 12, 1939, and was equaled by Klemmer on June 29, 1941.

Earlier, Harrison Dillard, the smooth-striding Negro hurdler from Baldwin-Wallace College who has bettered the world record for the 120-yard high hurdles, moved into the Olympic 100-meter dash picture.

Dillard won his sprint heat in the brilliant time of :10.5 with a strong quartering wind, defeating Don Anderson of the University of California by 2 yards.

Lloyd La Beach, who will represent Panama at the Olympic Games, equaled Dillard's time in winning his own heat, the best of the day.

La Beach, who has been timed in :10.2 for 100 meters, equalling the world record, bested Charles Peters, of Indiana University, the Big Nine champion, by two yards.

Twelve in all qualified for the 100 meter semi-finals, including William Mathis former Cardozo High of Washington, D. C., athlete, now of the New York Pioneer Club.

Lou Brissie Beats Bosox For A's, 4-2

Boston, July 2 (AP).—With Lefty Lou Brissie turning in an artistic six hitter, the Philadelphia Athletics drubbed the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 2, tonight before a packed 33,998 crowd.

It was the Mackmen's ninth triumph in their last 10 starts and their fourth in a row at Fenway Park this season.

Walter Masterson Allows Only 3 Hils

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

New York, July 2.—For pitching one of the finest games of his career, Walter Masterson was rewarded with a 2-1 victory over the Yankees tonight when Carden Gillenwater walloped a home run in the twelfth inning.

Gillenwater's home run, a drive that carried high into the left field stands, broke up a pitching battle between Masterson and Lefthander Tommy Byrne that had 37,000 fans on edge all evening.

Masterson, in deep trouble many times because of his own wildness and two Washington errors, set down the slugging Bombers with three singles. Byrne, stifling the Nat batters with his curveball, allowed only five hits.

Gillenwater contributed three sparkling catches and also came to Masterson's aid by scoring the only other Nat run.

With the Yankees leading by 1-0, Gillenwater scored the tying run in the seventh. He walked. So did Tom McBride. Mickey Vernon moved them along with a sacrifice and Mark Christman's fly to Joe DiMaggio sent Gillenwater home.

Walk Leads to Yank Run

Masterson, fast but wild, made a king-sized contribution to the lone Yankee tally, produced in the third inning. He passed Phil Rizzuto, one of the seven walks he issued, and hit Tommy Henrich with a pitched ball. DiMaggio followed Larry Berra's strikeout by scratching a single through the infield that scored Rizzuto to give the Yanks a lead they held until the seventh.

After that, Masterson didn't allow another Yankee hit until the fifth and gave up his final safety to George McQuinn in the eleventh.

With one away in the eleventh, McQuinn singled sharply to right. Earl Wooten, racing in, juggled the ball long enough for McQuinn to reach second. Masterson got Billy Johnson on an infield roller, McQuinn taking third.

Then with the crowd urging him to produce, Johnny Lindell to Masterson's artistry by lofting weakly to Vernon and the last serious Yankee threat was over.

A Great Masterson

Masterson tonight was like the Masterson who beat Bob Feller, 2-0, on his return from the Navy in 19[illegible]—and like the Masterson who pitched 16 scoreless innings against the White Sox last season with Early Wynn winning in a relief role in the 18th, 1-0.

Masterson overpowered the Yankees with his fast-ball, kept them swinging harmlessly at a tantalizing curve and also had them completely buffaloed with a neat change of pace.

This was his sixth win of the year against four defeats. It was also his first victory in a month, his last coming in this same ball park June 1 when he beat the Yankees, 4-1, on 5 hits.

Byrne, who last Sunday shackled the Tigers on 2 hits, had the Nats swinging at the stadium's close air in the early innings. He struck out eight, getting everybody except Al Evans. He fanned four of the first six Nats to face him.

Home Chances Wasted

The Nats opened the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings by getting their lead-off man on base, but only in the seventh could they move him around.

Masterson walked only two men after the sixth inning, but wildness in the earlier rounds had him in a stew. The Yankees left six runners on the bases in the first five innings.

Henrich contributed the catch of the evening when he raced against the wall in right-center to haul in Vernon's long fly in the second. Tom McBride had a busy day in left, with 10 putouts and one assist, and Gillenwater, whose big bat finally settled the issue, saved Masterson in the ninth with a sizzling catch of Byrne's sinking liner.

IN SHORT—Bobo Newsom, currently unemployed, worked out with the Yankees before the game. "Got plenty offers, just bidin' my time," he informed all interested in his next move . . . Shortstop Angel Fleitas, recalled from Chattanooga, joined the Nats tonight. Hasn't played in 10 days, favoring a charley horse . . . Kuhel protested the bats used by Henrich and DiMaggio, claiming they carried rosin stains above the 18-inch limit . . . For tomorrow's afternoon tussle it's Sid Hudson (3-7) vs. Allie Reynolds (9-3) . . .

Thanks, Chico

Chico Pieretti, the little guy that Washington traded to the Chicago White Sox recently, did the Nats a good turn last night. Pieretti pitched the White Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers, enabling the Nats to move into fifth place in the American league race.

California's Crew Upsets Washington

Princeton, N. J., July 2 (AP).—California's Golden Bears provided the biggest surprise of the constantly surprising Olympic rowing tryout series today by handing Washington's favored crew its first defeat of the season in the semi-final heat.

The victory, which startled virtually everyone except the California oarsmen and Coach Ky Ebright, sent the Golden Bears into tomorrow's final heat along with Princeton, another surprise winner, and Harvard.

The three-boat final will be rowed at 5 p. m. (EST) tomorrow with the winner earning the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games at London.

Before California turned the tables on its two-time conqueror this season, Princeton repeated its earlier upset victory over Yale and Harvard reversed the decision against Cornell to wipe out another upset.

Cornell had beaten Harvard in the first round of qualifying heats Wednesday and Princeton had barely edged out Yale. The two first-round losers qualified for the semi-finals through the system of second trials for the beaten crews.

Elliott's Homer, 4 Phil Errors Give Braves 7-3 Victory

Philadelphia, July 2 (AP).—The Boston Braves mixed 12 hits with four expensive errores and defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-3, in the first game of the series tonight. Bob Elliott hit his seventh homerun of the season in the first inning with one on.

The Phillies knocked Clyde Shoun out of the box in the third but could do nothing thereafter as Bob Hogue set them down with two hits the remainder of the way.

Belina Hanover Takes Feature

Driver, 70, Wins at Laurel With 19-Year-Old Horse

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., July 2.—It was age—not youth—that had its fling in the races last night at Laurel Raceway.

Frank Hanna, 70-year-old driver who has won six of seven starts, brought home 19-year-old Hanover Expressed in one fourth race, a 6-furlong trot.

Hanover Express, second oldest horse on the grounds, went the distance in 1:36 3/5 and returned $4.60 to his many followers. A double-gaited performer, the aged but still speedy gelding, has won three straight trotting events—two at Laurel.

Kate D. made a menacing move around the last turn, but the canny Hanna held her and Biery Hanover, who was third, safe.

Tom Lewis handled the 6-year-old mare perfectly, saving ground all the way and coming in a half-length before Uptown after being fourth in the stretch. The winner paid $26.80 for $2.

The mutuel handle totalled $180,884, falling short of Thursday night's record $187,661 when only four horses started in the last race which was won by Duke Harvester.

The night's betting, on the eighth full card of the meeting, sent the new track past the million-dollar mark—to be exact, $1,177,012.

Upset of the night was scored by another horse who can both trot and pace, 11-year-old gallant Heart. Tom Walters steered him to his first win in two years in the fifth race and he returned $44. Tom Wingate's Hob Nob, 6-5 favorite, helped his cause no little by breaking Gait right at the start of the mile pace.

An interesting winner was Reynolds Dail who surprised in the first race and returned $17.80. The 2-year-old, sired by Whippet, full brother of the immortal Greyhound, made his first try at the races a winning one. The colt, who trotted the mile in 2:13 3/5, is entered in top futurities in the East.

Reds' 3 Homers Top Cards, 7-3

Cincinnati, July 2 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds clubbed three homers tonight as they defeated the erring St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3, tumbling the Red Birds to their fourth straight loss. The Cardinals committed six errors. Danny Litwhiler, Johnny Wyrostek and Grady Hatton homered for the Reds. Stan Musial connected for a circuit blow for St. Louis.

Bulla Has Best Yank Score, 291

By Glenn Williams

Muirfield, Scotland, July 2 (AP).—Henry Cotton coasted to his third British Open golf championship by a comfortable five-stroke margin today, 14 years after he first rocketed to international fame in 1934 by ending American domination of the event.

Now 41, the most celebrated of British pros hung up a 284 score, just one stroke off the record for the 72-hole medal play championship, first set by American Gene Sarazen in 1932.

The new champion, who also won in 1934 at Sandwich, England, and in 1937 at Carnoustie, Scotland, said he ate well in the United States where the food "built me up."

An American challenge that originally included 13 golfers flopped like a wet sock on a locker room floor.

Best of the lot was Johnny Bulla, Phoenix, Ariz., who scratched out a 291. It gave him a tie for seventh place among the 36 who were permitted to play the final rounds.

Fred Daly, a red-faced Ulsterman who edged Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, by one stroke to win the title last year, finished second with a 289.

Stranahan, the American youth who holds the British Amateur championship, finished in a four-way tie for twenty-third place with a score of 297—the poorest of the amateurs who qualified for the finals.

The other two amateurs, Capt. Ed. Kingsley, former Utah champ who now is stationed in Germany, and Mario Gonzalez, tall Brazilian, tied with 293s.

Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., had a 297.

Two other Americans, Lawson Little of Cleveland and Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., came in at 302 and were saved the embarrassment of finishing last by a pair of sky-high 80s manufactured by Glasgow Pro Walter Lyle, who finished all by himself at 307.

The American story was a putting story. The invaders played beautiful golf all the way to the green but the ball just wouldn't drop.

Said Stranahan, as he sat drinking tea in the clubhouse, "I'm playing better than I ever did, but I just can't putt. I don't know whether I'll ever learn it.

Cotton took a four-stroke lead into today's final 36 holes after carding his brilliant 66 yesterday. Some of it melted away when he took a 75 this morning but his final safe round of 72 closed the door.

His hair is graying and the crows feet around his eyes are deepening. He also is conscious of his age.

"Somebody told me the other day that it was time somebody struck a blow for the over 40s," he said. "I've done it."

Henry Cotton, Britain	71	66	75	72	—284
Fred Daly, Ireland	72	71	73	73	—289
R. De Vicenzo, Argentina	70	73	72	75	—290

Stribling Added To Fight Card

Ken Stribling, popular local Negro middleweight, has been signed for a ten-round bout with Randy Brown of New York on the fight show at Griffith Stadium on Monday night, July 12.

A bout between Aaron Perry, D. C. middleweight and Laverne Roach, highly-rated Texan, tops the card that will offer four tenrounders. Earlier Menendez had announced a scheduled tenrounder between heavyweights Jackie Cranford, Washington and Jackie Lyons, Pittsburgh.

Menendez also reported that his fourth tenrounder match will feature Jimmy Cooper, speedy Washington featherweight and an opponent yet to be named.

Lots of Excitement

Fred Kratz Is Assured of Jockey Crown At Charles Town by Winning Four Races

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, July 2.—Things happened here this afternoon:

1. Jockey Freddie Kratz, leading rider at the meeting, piloted four winners, three of them in a row, including a third-race victory at $39.80 with E. Rinaldi's Vitacle, a 9-year-old maiden making her first start on a recognized track. Kratz rode 35 winners during the meeting.

2. Mrs. George Fishback's Grandma C., trained by Angela Tammaro and ridden by her brother, Johnny, won her fourth victory of the meeting in the featured sixth race while operating for the favorite players. The 6-year-old mare was pulled up at the end.

3. Charles Town's famous "Go Home Happy" Purse, assuring at least $100 for each starter left two owners very unhappy. F. W. Bennett was remorseful because his Tick By jumped the fence during the post parade and due to injury was scratched. Owner Mike Johnson was unhappy because had Tick By been scratched this morning, his Carolina Boy could have picked up at least $100 under the conditions for the "nonwinning owner event."

4. A disqualification marked the second race, the concluding half of the daily double. R. Winchester's War Chain took a circuitous course around the track, got home first but was taken out of the money with victory going to M. H. Everhart's Chiff Chaff. Backers of War Chain literally booed their heads off with others joining in the demonstration. However, no one was sen to leave and normalcy was restored before the next race.

5. A minus pool developed in the show betting on the day's feature race. The total bet to show lacked $146.96 of making the books balance for that position. However, with five starters it was natural and the mysterious Mr. X, who caused several similar incidents early in the meeting was not around.

15 All-Stars Selected For Games With Brooklyn

Jim Munro Will Manage Area Team

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Sandlot officials yesterday sat down and selected a crackerjack 15-man junior All-Star baseball squad to represent the Washington area against the Brooklyn All-Stars in a home-and-home series this month.

Both games will be played in a big league setting, the first at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, July 12, and the return game at Griffith Stadium, July 27.

Ten schools and six area sandlot teams are represented on The Washington Post-sponsored junior team. Its manager is Jim Munro, whose Marx Jewelry club won the American Amateur Baseball Association junior title last season in Johnstown, Pa.

Six of Marx Players

Six members of the 1947 championship Marx team are on the star-studded squad, including Third Baseman Bill Jones, Infielder Ed Claxton, Catchers Johnny Hogan and Sal DeGiorgi and Pitchers Bill Witzel and Ben Duvall.

Although all the players are 18 and under, 11 stand over 5 feet 11 inches, and nine weigh over 165 pounds.

Duvall, at 5 feet 9 inches, is the shortest member. But he cannot be considered a midget when it is remembered that he pitched and batted Coolidge to its third straight interhigh baseball crown last month. He's the only lefty on the four-man mound staff.

Representing the suburban area are Witzel, University of Maryland's brilliant freshman; Bobby Hooker, mainstay of the George Washington High of Alexandria pitching corps, and Claxton, who played every position for Georgetown Prep last season.

Infield Has Class

There's plenty of balance in the infield with two lefthanded and two righthanded hitters. Portsiders batters are Dave Zatz, considered one of the finest fielding first basemen in Eastern High history, and Bob Curtis, who hit .340 for Tech High last year. Second Baseman Spike Bauroth played errorless ball through 18 games for Eastern, while Third Sacker Bill Jones led Tech in runs batted in.

Four outfielders were named, with four high schools represented. Western's Norman Wacker, Central's Jimmy Pantos and Anacostia's Ralph Fraser will supply righthanded batting power with husky Vince Pugliese of Roosevelt, providing the homerun threat from the lefthand side.

Behind the plate are 16-year-old Johnny Hogan from Gonzaga High, and Sal DeGiorgi, Eastern's all-high receiver. Each was a .330 hitter in the Inter-High League, with many of Hogan's drives going for extra bases.

Infielders—Dave Zatz, Hardesty's Market; Spike Bauroth, Hardesty's; Bob Curtis, Merchandising Plumbers; Bill Jones, Marx Jewelers; Ed Claxton, Marx Jewelers.

Catchers—Johnny Hogan, Marx Jewelers; Sal DeGiorgi, Marx Jewelers.

Manager—Jim Munro, Marx Jewelers.

Coach—Marshall Jacobs, Hardesty's.

Bogley Wins Easily, Faces Trabert in Scholastic Finals

Charlottesville, Va., July 2 (AP).—Gilbert Bogley of the Landon School, Washington, and Tony Trabert of Walnut Hills High School, Cincinnati, won their way into tomorrow's finals of the National Interscholastic Tennis Tournament here today.

Second-seeded Bogley improved as he went along, defeating Ernest Dubray of Lowell High School, San Francisco, who was seeded No. 4, by 7—5, 6—2.

Trabert, third seeded player, tumbled top-ranked George Gentry of La Jolla, (Calif.) High School, by 6—2, 6—1.

An ever-steady competitor, Bogley was pushed but never headed in the tight first set, and once he got his crosscourt shots under control, he breezed through the second set, taking the last five straight games.

Trabert engineered the tournament's first upset, not so much because he defeated Gentry as the ease with which he did it. The Ohio scholastic champion had the Southern California champ on the defensive from start to finish. Cool, precise, often brilliant, Trabert scored repeatedly with a sizzling backhand. He played almost errorless tennis in the second set.

It was a busy day for Bogley, who after his singles triumph joined teammate Jack Yates to win quarterfinals and semifinals doubles matches and thus bring the Landon School into both the singles and doubles finals.

In the quarterfinals, Bogley and Yates sidelined Andover Academy's Jim Sagabiel and Alan Schwartz, 6—4, 6—3. They returned to win in the semifinals against Alan Fischl and Clyde Barker of Exeter Academy, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles finalists with Bogley and Yates are Dick Squires and Gilmore Rothrock of the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.

Few Hours Apart

Divorcee, 42, 4th Clubbing Victim, Dies

Tulsa, Okla., July 2 (AP).—A 42-year-old divorcee was found viciously bludgeoned to death in her apartment today a few hours after another woman and two teen-age girls were severely injured by a clubbing in another residence less than five blocks away.

The slain woman was Mrs. Ruth Norton, elevator operator in a downtown bank building. Her body was discovered by a woman distributing telephone directories while officers were investigating an attack on Mrs. J. B. Cole, 38; her daughter, Doris, 13, and the latter's chum, Levon Gabbard, 14.

A police pathologist first said Mrs. Norton had not been criminally assaulted but later reported she had been.

The two attacks took place in the same neighborhood where unsolved killings of three other women have occurred within the last six years.

Price Ousts Bud Ward

Wichita, Kans., July 2 (AP).—Unheralded Richard (Dick) Price of Wichita sneaked in a 15-foot putt on the seventeenth hole for a 3 and 1 victory over defending Champion Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., in third-round play of the Western Amateur Golf Tournament today.

National Amateur Champion Robert (Skee) Riegel of Glendale, Calif., outlasted young E. J. Rogers, jr., of Oklahoma City, 1 up, in 20 holes in the morning round, then breezed past Tom Stephenson of Kansas City, 5 and 4.

Fire Held Possible Cause Of UAL Crash

Ashland, Pa., July 2 (U.P.).—Fire may have broken out in a United Air Lines DC-6 shortly before it crashed near Mount Carmel and killed all 43 persons aboard, the Civil Aeronautics Board was told today.

Possible presence of fire in the cargo pit was indicated in messages sent by the airliner to New York's LaGuardia Field in the nine minutes preceding the crash at 1:41 p. m. on June 17.

Thirteen witnesses told CAB investigators they saw no smoke or fire coming from the plane before it plunged into a power transformer. One of them, Ronnie Synder, 9, said he saw a "shiny object" fall from the plane.

Louis Zell, chief of UAL communications, said that at 1:32 the plane radioed "Hello," and followed with a message that sounded like "York," or possibly "fire."

Then came the message "We released fire extinguishers in the forward cargo pit." The last reports were "This is an emergency descent" and "forward cargo pit emergency."

Princeton 150 Wins at Henley

Henley-on-Thames, England, July 2 (AP).—A peppery 150-pound crew from Princeton University and the defending champions from Kent School of Connecticut gained the semifinals in the Thames Cup event today at the Henley Royal Regatta. They will clash tomorrow for a berth in the finals.

Princeton's time—7 minutes and 9 seconds—was so fast that it made the other three survivors look like their anchors were dragging.

Banker's Wife Gets Millions in Reno

MRS. EVELYN LEHMAN, wife of the New York Banker Allan S. Lehman, reportedly got a divorce settlement of $3,500,000 in Reno—probably the largest in the divorce colony's history. Lehman is a nephew of New York's former Governor, Herbert H. Lehman

Hopkins, Harris In Golf Finals

Palo Alto, Calif., July 2 (AP).—Edwin Hopkins, jr., of Texas, and Bob Harris, San Jose (Calif.) State College, today won their way to the National Collegiate Golf Tournament finals. They meet tomorrow for the title.

Hopkins scored a 1-up, 19th hole victory over Tom Lambie of Stanford University and Harris eliminated Ted Richards, University of California at Los Angeles, 4 and 3.

It Used to Be Monkey Glands, Now They're Trying It on Bull

Ams, Iowa, July 2 (AP).—A $38,000 Hereford bull, now worth only its weight in hamburger because of his inability to become a father, will undergo an operation next week.

Dr. M. A. Emerson of the Iowa State College veterinary staff, will operate on Prince Rupert in an attempt to correct the animal's sterility.

Dr. Emerson explained that a small gland at the base of the animal's brain—the pituitary gland—hadn't grown along with the rest of him. Hence, although Rupert is a big brawny bull with all the necessary show points, pituitarily speaking he is still a child.

The plan to save Rupert, the doctor said, is this:

When another bull is slaughtered at a packing plant in Des Moines, the doctor will be on hand to save the pituitary gland. He will pack it in a chilled salt solution, rush it to Ames and transplant it into Rupert's neck.

Dr. Emerson said he will know in a week or two whether the transplant was successful, but whether Rupert will be any better off from a calf-producing standpoint will take several months to discover.

Spencer Leads Virginia Golf

Hot Springs, Va., July 2 (AP).—Wynson Spencer of Newport News was an odds-on favorite to walk away with medalist honors tonight in the 18-hole qualifying round of the Virginia State Amateur Championship Golf Tournament.

Spencer, with his long drives and precision putting, toured the par-71, 6714-yard Cascades course this afternoon in four-under-par 67 to lead the field after more than two thirds of the 152 golfers who teed off had posted their cards.

There were few left who had much of a chance to match Spencer's brilliant round, as dusk began to gather over the Cascades layout. Trailing the insurance salesman by four strokes was little Dave Ewell, jr. of Hermitage Country Club, Richmond. Walter Hagen, jr., Hermitage Club champion, was in third with a 72.

Thrifty Beats Cameo, 11 to 4

Brian Bell, Washington and Lee University's stellar first baseman, did his sparkling for Thrifty Liquors yesterday as he hit a home run and his team downed Cameo, 11-4, in a Washington Post-Industrial League game on the West Ellipse.

The loss was the first in three second-half games for first-place Cameo, while the win boosted Thrifty into a tie for second with Heurich. Bill Aud also helped the Thrifty cause with three singles and knocked in four runs.

Wacker's homer came with one aboard and put Georgetown ahead, 4-3. Hardesty's batting leader was also an all-star team selection, Dave Zatz. He had a double and single in three trips.

Four Tied at 138

Harrison Fires 67, Takes Lead at Detroit With 137

Detroit, July 2 (AP).—Age gave way to stamina today in the $15,000 Motor City Open golf championship as E. J. (Dutch) Harrison charged in with a four under par 33-34—67 for sole possession of the halfway lead with 137 for 36 holes.

They were Jim Turnesa who mtached Dutch's 67 for one of the tournament's two finest rounds thus far; South Africa's Bobby Locke who added a 68 to his first round 70; Home Pro Melvin Chick Harbert with two 69s and Western Open Champ Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., with 68-70.

National Open and PGA champion Ben Hogan dropped six strokes behind with a 34—39—73 for a 143 total, and would have been worse without a sizzling finish for a birdie four on 17 and an eagle two on the 330-yard 18th, where he holed out a 75-yard pitch shot just as he did in the opening round.

A pair of Southerners shared the 139 bracket as Stewart (Skip) Alexander of Lexington, N. C., put a 68 on top of his first round 71 and Elmer Reed, Atlanta airline pilot, combined a 70 and 69.

Twenty-four-year-old Gene Dahlbender, Southern amateur champ, also from Atlanta, paced the amateurs with 68—72—140 where he was tied with the veteran Ky Laffoon of St. Andrews, Ill.

Marty Furgol took 73 for 141 and old-timer Joe Kirkwood, 51-year-old Philadelphia trick shot star, skidded to 77 in the rain for 145.

Gene Sarazen, the 46-year-old gentleman farmer from Germantown, N. Y., who had 69 the first day followed it up with 73 for a 142 total and still was in a contending position.

Parents Ask For Emphasis On Three R's In Schools

Montgomery Board Receives Petition Seeking Change in Present Curriculum

More emphasis on the "three R's" and no more "experimentalism" in Montgomery County schools was demanded yesterday by an indignant, newly formed parent group.

Protesting lack of attention to "the essentials of knowledge" in county schools, the group of about 35 parents headed by John H. Hiser, Bethesda businessman, is circularizing a petition calling for drastic revision of the school curriculum.

Present school policies, according to the group, "have not produced the results we know our children are capable of acnieving.

Believe in Essentials

"We believe our public schools should exist for the primary purpose of training our children in the essentials of knowledge, namely, reading, writing (not printing or script), arithmetic, spelling, language, phonics, American history, geography and civics," the petition declares.

County school officials would not comment on the parent charges "until we receive the petition." But one educator charged "they have not offered one iota of evidence to support anything they say."

Included in the 26-point resolution adopted by the parents is a request for regular reports on children's progress. One group member, Mrs. Duncan H. Brooks, said report cards have been discontinued for the first three grades in some elementary schools "and I have been told they plan to do away with them altogether."

More Homework Sought

Assignment of more homework and furnishing of more textbooks to pupils was asked as well as relegation of art work and music to a minor position in the school curriculum, and establishment of "more orderly and disciplined" classrooms. There is at present "too much freedom," the parents contend.

Encouraging more children to enter college and more "healthy free competition" in classrooms was requested. The parents told school officials their children are "normal young Americans," not "guinea pigs, behavioristic, psychiatric, personality or social problems."

The county education system should "leave to the jurisdiction of the home those duties and privileges which are inherently the home's," the parents said and added that school control over out-of-school leisure time activities should be discontinued immediately.

In another development yesterday, Harlan V. Hadley, an executive committee member of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, made public a letter to President Brooke Johns of the county commissioners, in which he charged inadequate school funds were approved for 1948-49.

In the letter, he criticized the county government for not approving more than the $2,818,000 which was allocated county schools for 1948-49 by the commissioners. A higher school budget, even though it involved a tax increase, had the "well-informed support" of the public, he declared.

Oil Lent to D. C. And 11 States 97 Pct. Returned

By The Associated Press

The Navy said yesterday that 97 per cent of the fuel oil lent to 11 Eastern Seaboard States and Washington, D. C., last winter during the critical fuel-oil shortage has either been returned or is en route to naval storage.

Secretary of the Navy Sullivan, after conferences with members of Congress and Governors of the States, authorized the loans with the understanding that they be returned to Navy stocks on or before June 30.

A total of 1,050,000 barrels of fuel oil was lent. As for 31,000 barrels still due the Navy, the companies within the States owing this amount are negotiating on the method of return.

The States aided were Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont and Virginia.

4-Day Suspension Ordered by ABC In Drinking Case

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday ordered a four-day suspension of the liquor license of Sally B. Solomon, who operates a restaurant at 615 7th st. sw., after finding her guilty of permitting an intoxicated person to remain on the premises.

The suspension will begin at 8 a. m. July 12 and end at 8 a. m. July 16, ABC officials said.

Charges that drinks had been sold at the restaurant to an intoxicated person and that the owner failed to supervise the restaurant in person or through an approved manager were dismissed by the ABC board.

Dog-Tired Colonel Wins Rest From Yelps of Five Huskies

The Washington Post

HUSKY PUPPIES—John Newton poses with Astra, Zholton and Zherkoff, three of the five Husky puppies he will part with

Col. Albert Love, U.S.A. ret., is dog tired—of seven Siberian Huskies.

Colonel Love came into the Municipal Court offices of Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King and complained about barks and yelps that same from Newton's yard. Colonel Love lives next door and said he's had enough of the dogs' antics.

King thought it over and said the law states that where there is evidence that dogs are a nuisance, they must be quieted down or else be moved away. He suggested that perhaps three Huskies would be enough for Newton.

Colonel Love said that three would be too much for him. After a bit of bickering, all agreed that two dogs might remain with Newton.

Newton pointed out that his dogs were pedigreed show dogs. For instance, he said, there were Ekaterina and Kiana and their mutual husband Don Dee, and four pups.

King thought it was a good idea, but said he'd have to ask his wife. On second thought, King said, he'd better ask his neighbors too.

Term Given For Robbing Newsboy, 13

'Can Be No Leniency In Case Like This,' Is Court Reply to Plea.

An 18-year-old youth was given 16 months to 4 years imprisonment yesterday in District Court for robbing a 13-year-old newsboy of $9.30.

The defendant was Mack G. Moore, 1664 Columbia rd. nw. According to the charges, he grabbed Times-Herald Newsboy Benjamin H. Johnson, 409 Columbia rd. nw., as the latter was making collections on March 11.

Moore originally pleaded innocent to the charge, but later changed his mind and admitted his guilt. He asked Justice David A. Pine for mercy on the basis of the admission yesterday.

In another case, Paul McCoy, 25, 473 I st. nw., was given one to four years imprisonment for the yoke robbery of William L. Flucker, 1863 Kalorama rd. nw.

John S. Davis, 43, of 815 New Jersey ave. nw., was given six months to two years imprisonment for assault with intent to rape a 13-year-old girl.

Two men accused of capital offenses were found to be insane in the court. William A. Davis, 24, no known address, who was charged with rape, housebreaking and assault, was found insane for the second time since his indictment in 1946. After a period of commitment at St. Elizabeths Hospital, he was pronounced cured in 1947.

The other man found insane was John M. Browne, 28, charged with first-degree murder in the Collins R. Mason shooting December 14. Both men resided at 1114 4th st. ne.

Davenport Conviction Reversed

David Douglas Davenport, 31, the self-styled Union Station bootlegger, jumped back into the Municipal Court picture yesterday.

Davenport, who for awhile was coming into court twice a week, has been away, serving a 30-day sentence for indecent exposure. But he came back yesterday when the Municipal Court of Appeals reversed an assault conviction for which he was under $500 bond pending the appeal here.

In the appealed case, he was charged with placing his hands "with lascivious intent" upon a 15-year-old girl in Union Station.

The Appeals Court objected to the language of Judge Armond W. Scott when he instructed the trial jury.

He failed to instruct the jury that if they had any reasonable doubt about any material point or question in the case they must resolve such doubt in favor of the defendant.

Meanwhile, a bootleg whisky sales charge against Davenport is pending until the return of Judge John P. McMahon who has been on sick leave.

New Traffic Data Seeks Accident Cut

6 Maps at Police Headquarters Show Location, Number, Time of Mishaps

Police have resorted to a new scientific pulse-taking of Washington's traffic accidents to combat a sharp upswing in accidents, deaths and injuries.

One is a master map, in use for several years. The vari-colored pins that stud this map tell many things: where the accident happened, whether anyone was killed, whether there was injury or propey damage, whether the accident involved automobiles, a pedestrian or a streetcar.

Because of increased accidents so far this year, police have adopted five additional maps. Four of them supply the vital time element. There are maps for three eight-hour periods, from midnight to 8 a. m., from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to midnight. There is a special map for the hours from 2 to 7 a. m.

Because the maps showed the city's worst accident hours were between 4 p. m. and midnight, a squad of 10 motorcycle men has already been shifted to that period.

They showed traffic deaths totaling 39, 5 more than there were at this time last year.

Accidents involving children also have increased. Comparing 1948 figures with those of last year, child deaths are up from 2 to 4 and injuries from 568 to 662.

Capt. Loraine T. Johnson, second in command of the Traffic Division, said the special map showing accidents involving children will undoubtedly show the importance of adequate playground areas in reducing such accidents. He said most of these accidents so far have been in areas lacking such facilities.

The maps show Washington's most dangerous street is Benning rd. ne., from 15th st. to Minnesota ave. Other bad spots are 11th st. se., north of the bridge, and the intersection of Georgia and Florida aves. nw.

As accidents in the District have spiraled, so have traffic arrests. During June there were 1009 arrests for speeding alone.

Many of the traffic law violators have had an opportunity to attend the District Traffic School which was opened January 9.

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the Traffic Division, yesterday submitted a report to the Commissioners declaring it will be necessary to continue the school for six more months to determine accurately whether it should become permanent. The report showed that since its start the school has produced 1007 graduates.

Horan to Seek Reelection To Congress

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), guiding hand in the District's financial affairs, yesterday announced from his home that he would seek election this year to his fourth congressional term.

Horan

The chairman of the House District Appropriations Subcommittee said he would file such declaration in his State's Fifth District within a few days, the Associated Press reported.

Horan, 49, is a native resident of Wenatchee, Wash., the Western apple center of United States. He's been an apple farmer since college graduation and part owner of a fruit-packing and shipping company.

In District affairs, he has long advocated a 2 per cent general sales tax and has backed many a civic improvement project. He was active in sponsoring the recently concluded mass chest X-ray survey.

Laborer Killed In Freak Accident

A Capital Transit Co. laborer was killed yesterday in a freak accident when a steel fragment from a hammer flew into his throat, severing his jugular vein.

Police said the man, Milton H. Thomas, 62, of 1722 H st. ne., with another workman, was attempting to cut a bolt on streetcar tracks at Cornell ave. and MacArthur blvd., Glen Echo, Md.

The accident occurred, police said, as Thomas held a sharp tool on the bolt and the other man was striking the tool with a sledge hammer. Thomas was pronounced dead upon arrival at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda.

Trail Fades In Hunt for Girl Slayer

Baffled Police Exhaust Clews, Add $300 to Make $800 Reward Total

The trail leading to the rape-slayer of 11-year-old Carol Bradwell became more obscure yesterday.

Police were without new leads, and after questioning more than 100 persons were without a single suspect.

To spur activity in the case, Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett announced yesterday that police are offering a $300 reward for information leading to the killer.

Total Reward of $800

This brings to $800 the total reward money posted by police and private citizens since the discovery of Carol's body in Rock Creek Park last Sunday.

The $800 includes $100 offered yesterday by Levering H. Gilpin of 5132 Tilden st. nw., operator of the Muzak franchise here, and $100 authorized Thursday night by the Arkansas Avenue Community Citizens Association.

Police were left without a suspect yesterday when they released an Army mental patient who had escaped from the neuropsychiatric ward at Fort Belvoir, Va.

The soldier was picked up at 4:30 a. m. yesterday at 14th st. and Constitution ave. nw., after a passerby heard him muttering about the crime. After questioning, the soldier was turned over to the Army authorities.

Weapon Search Given Up

The Detective Bureau said every available man was still working on the case. Capt. Mark Raspberry said his men were still questioning persons throughout the park and in the neighborhood of the slaying. He said they have given up the search for the murder weapon.

The body of the Bardwell girl, her throat slashed, was found Sunday night in undergrowth not far from the park entrance at 17th st. and Colorado ave. nw.

Police have appealed in vain for information about three young Negro girls seen running excitedly from the park entrance that day, and about a man of about 35 observed also that day in a blood-spattered shirt at 14th st. and Park rd. nw.

Community Fete Monday

The Metropolis View Citizens Association and the District Recreation Department will sponsor an all-day community celebration beginning at 10 a. m. on Monday at the Edgewood Playground, 3d and Evarts sts. ne.

Races, a horseshoe tournament, tennis, baseball and basketball games will be held during the day and movies will be shown at 9 p. m. Local merchants will contribute prizes.

U. S. Attorney Tells Court Sullivan Admitted Thefts To Pay Off Debts

Joseph H. Sullivan, 30, who police term "Washington's one-man crime wave," was placed under $10,000 bond yesterday on a charge of robbery.

Sullivan, who resides at 4611 Hillside rd. se., appeared in Municipal Court briefly. His case was continued a week.

In asking for the high bond yesterday, Assistant United States Attorney Robert Short told Judge Walter J. Casey that Sullivan had admitted six holdups here and had been positively identified as the stickup man in a seventh.

Sullivan was arrested late Thursday in a gun battle with police after he robbed the Mutual Credit Co., 901 10th st. nw., of $96.

Jumped Into Hearse

He ran out with the company employes at his heels, jumped into a stalled hearse at a red light, and then ran toward a taxi which the driver deliberately headed into a traffic jam at 12th and L sts. nw.

Short said in court that Sullivan, in addition to the robbery counts, would be charged with assault with a dangerous weapon against the hearse driver, the hacker and police.

Sullivan remained silent throughout the entire proceeding.

Identified In Lineup

1. The Mutual Credit Co. described above.
2. American Airlines Office, 813 15th st. nw., from which $399 in bills and $283 in checks was taken.
3. High's Ice Cream Store, 4431 Wisconsin ave., nw., $28.
4. Western Union office, 1019 10th st. nw., $32.
5. Another Western Union office, 1720 Connecticut ave. nw., $40.

Metal Workers Returning on Grant of Raise

But Employers Group Denies Giving In to Demand for 25 Cents

Most of the 200 metal workers who walked off building projects here Thursday in a dispute over a new contract returned to work yesterday, according to a union spokesman.

Chester Pierce, chairman of the negotiating committee for Local 102, Sheet Metal Workers Union, said that 19 employers had agreed to a 25-cent-an-hour raise—boosting their pay to $2.50 an hour—and that, as a result, 154 union metalworkers had returned to their jobs.

The strike was called July 1, according to Pierce, against 51 employers, including 24 members of the Sheet Metal Contractors Association, when they offered to pay half of the 25 cents asked by the union. Yesterday, Pierce said, 17 independent employers and two members of the association agreed to the union terms.

M. R. Skinner, chairman of the association negotiations committee, said last night he knew of no association member accepting the union terms.

Meanwhile, Federal Conciliator James J. O'Byrne said he planned to call a meeting of the employers and union representatives early next week in an attempt to iron out the controversy.

Laid to Monoxide

U. S. Aide Found Dead In Garage

William G. Conklin, 42-year-old State Department aide, was found dead of monoxide gas at about 6 p. m. yesterday in a garage at 4435 Q st. nw.

Conklin

Police said Conklin, clad only in pajama bottoms, was slumped in the driver's seat of his car, a half-emptied bottle of whisky and a detective mystery titled "Blind Man's Bluff" by his side.

Conklin was an expert on Belgium and Switzerland, in the State Department's western European political division, according to a brother, Groff Conklin, author and consultant at the National Cancer Institute.

The dead man had been on sick leave from the State Department for six weeks. He had been suffering from stomach ulcers, his brother said.

Police reported the engine of Conklin's car was off but still warm. The ignition switch and headlights were on and the garage door closed, police said.

Conklin had lived with the family of Mrs. Olive Dixon Edgar at the Q st. address, on and off, for some 20 years, first in Metuchen, N. J., and recently in Washington. Mrs. Edgar told police Conklin was last seen at breakfast about 11 a. m. when he seemed relatively cheerful.

A native of Glen Ridge, N. H., he was educated at Williams College and received a graduate degree in library science at Columbia University. His extensive world-wide service with the State Department included duty in Canada, Latin America, Geneva, and, at the outbreak of war, in Brussels.

'Shakespeare' Just Pen Name Of Oxford Earl, Barrell Says

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

The name "William Shakespeare" was just a pen name like "Mark Twain," Charles Wisner Barrell of New York declared yesterday.

Barrell has filed a $50,000 libel suit in District Court here against Dr. Giles E. Dawson, curator of books and manuscripts at the Folger Shakespeare Library. The suit hinges on evidence as to the authorship of Shakespeare's works which Barrell claims to have uncovered in making X-ray and infrared photographs of two portraits of Shakespeare at the Folger Library.

Barrell insists that the seventeenth Earl of Oxford used "William Shakespeare" as a pen name to write "Romeo and Juliet," Macbeth" and other works of the Bard of Avon.

"There was a man of Stratford who had a similar name spelled about ten different ways, but not that way," Barrell said.

The suit grew out of a statement by Dawson that if Barrell "can now produce pictures of these things, they must have been doctored up." This, the suit charges, damaged Barrell's reputation. Reached by telephone, Barrell said he intended to fight the case in court.

Barrell is secretary-treasurer of The Shakespeare Fellowship, 17 East 48th st., New York, an organization devoted to proving that "Edward de Vere, seventeenth Earl of Oxford (1550-1604) was the real creative personality behind the plays and poems of 'Mr. William Shakespeare.'"

The suit was filed by Charlton Ogburn, New York and Washington lawyer, who has been active in the organization about 10 years and is its legal counsel. He is also the author of a brochure, "The Renaissance Man of England," a discussion of Oxford's "role in the authorship mystery."

Barrell dismisses the claims of other schools of theorists that Sir Francis Bacon, a contemporary Earl of Rutland, or the Earl of Derby wrote the poems and plays, as "wild guesses."

Barrell, 62, gives about half of his time to the work of the Fellowship, he said, spending the rest largely in free-lance writing.

He has been a member of the Fellowship about 15 years, joining first the original English organization. After World War II broke out he and other American members established the American group.

JANSSEN'S SHAKESPEARE

Barrell, who was born in Warwick, N. Y.—curiously enough the name of the county in which Shakespeare was born—has done about 200 periodical articles, he figures. His first piece he sold to Youth's Companion when he was a 17-year-old high school student.

Made Educational Movies

Publicity work and an interest in photography led him into the motion picture field, and for 15 years before the war he was director of the motion picture bureau of Western Electric Co., making educational pictures on scientific subjects for the Bell Telephone Co.

During the War he served for a time with the United States Film Training unit at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Barrell, whose college education was confined to special courses, first became interested in the Shakespeare controversy when he saw a reference to a book by J. Thomas Looney, an English school teacher, in a New York newspaper column.

Looney's book, "Shakespeare Identified in Edward de Vere, the Seventeenth Earl of Oxford," published in 1920, appealed to Barrell's unorthodox taste and he took up the cause.

FWA Studying Two Bids Made for Belasco Theater

The Federal Works Agency yesterday was reported processing two bids for theatrical use of Belasco Theater building, former Lafayette Square playhouse now used for Government storage space.

John L. Nagle, deputy commissioner for real estate management, Public Buildings Administration, FWA, said yesterday the qualified bids are being "canvassed," and that no award would be made for at least a week.

Bidding are the American National Theater and Academy and Joseph Curtis of New York, nephew of Harry Cohn, president of Columbia Pictures.

Director of Construction Archie Hutson said the $195,591 low bid for the new Fourteenth Precinct station house, 42d st. and Benning rd. ne., submitted by Lee T. Turner, 3616 14th st. nw., was approximately $30,000 more than the District had expected to pay.

Hutson, who has been studying the cost estimates since bids were opened Tuesday, said he would forward his recommendation for action to the Commissioners early next week.

The new station is now operating from temporary quarters at Davis School annex, on H st. se., between 44th and 45th pl.

Annapolis, Md., July 2 (AP).—Next week's issue of the Southern Maryland Times came off the presses today, hard on the heels of this week's paper.

Associate Editor Sally Burwell said about 5000 copies of the July 9 issue will be left at the postoffice for distribution next Friday.

Mr. Brown

Mr. Brown, a veteran of 48 years of Government service, died Tuesday night at Homeopathic Hospital, where he had been under treatment since he suffered a heart attack May 21.

Long a popular man on Capitol Hill, Mr. Brown supervised some 345 employes in the upkeep and repair, heating and air-conditioning of the old and new House Office buildings.

Among officials and friends at the funeral services was Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., R. I.), who as a member of the House Building Commission developed a fast friendship with Mr. Brown.

Born in Prince Georges County, Mr. Brown moved to Washington with his family as a youth. He attended local public schools and Central High School.

One of his first government positions was as timekeeper on the job of reconstructing the old Congressional Library space back of the rotunda in the Capitol. He held a series of posts in connection with construction of the old House office building, completed in 1908. He also worked on construction of the Senate office building.

In 1930 he was named superintendent of the old House Office Building; in 1933, when the new structure was completed, he was also named superintendent of that building.

At various times he did construction work on the Columbia Institute for the Deaf, the Maltby building, and the Alexandria Masonic Temple. He was a member of St. John's Lodge of Masons.

Army Service Seen as Career By WAC Leader

The woman who will command the WAC training center at Camp Lee in Virginia says she is sold on military service as a career.

Maj. Elizabeth Smith joined the WACs six years ago and has "never once thought about getting out."

"It is a brand new career for women," she told a reporter.

"But there is no reason why women should not serve with the military as well as in business and industry."

Major Smith, a five-foot-eight brunette and a native of Washington, Ind., is now organizing for the opening about October 1 of the WAC center. She plans to go to camp Lee some time prior to that date.

She will direct the training of groups of 150 women arriving at the camp every two weeks for the 19-week basic course. It is estimated the center will have some 1,600 women in training a few weeks after the opening.

A large number of trainees are expected to remain at Camp Lee for special training. Others will go to regular Army schools.

Major Smith comes from a family of nonmilitary folk. Three foster brothers served in World War II; but no member made the military a career until Major Smith decided to stay with the WACs.

She graduated in fine arts from Depauw University, at Greencastle, Ind. Piano playing is her hobby.

She received her WAC training under Gen. Don C. Faith—who incidentally is a native also of Washington, Ind.

How to Bleach a Straw Hat

Is there any way to bleach a white straw hat that has turned yellowish? R. W. W.

I would suggest you take this hat to a firm which does hat cleaning and restoring. Whether or not the hat can be bleached or whitened will depend upon the type straw and its present condition. Such firms are listed under "Hat Cleaners and Repairers" in the yellow section of the telephone book.

I recently purchased a chintz skirt which has a quilted hem about 7 inches wide. Right now it is crisp and stands out in a hoop-like effect, so I would appreciate laundering instructions which would preserve both the sheen and stiffness of the material. The colors are pastel, and the store from which I purchased it said it was washable. J. J. P.

Because of the comparative weight of the quilted hem, the addition of a very little starch to the skirt after it is washed will probably be all that is necessary to retain its crispness. Most chintzes tend to lose some of their sheen with repeated washings, but allowing the skirt to dry completely, sprinkling and ironing while quite damp will do much to retain the gloss. Also, continuing to iron on the right side until completely dry will give it a shine.

Peaches were put in a sterling silver dish, and it turned black in spots. Regular silver polish does not remove the tarnish. What can I do to bring back the silver finish? H. S. W.

Since silver polish fails to remove these spots, I would suggest you take the dish to a jewelry repair shop for buffing by special equipment which will probably remove them.

Work glycerine into the stain, rub lightly between the hands and then wash the stain in soap and water.

How can vaseline be removed from colored voile? D. S.

Place an absorbent pad under the stain and sponge from the top with a cloth moistened with carbon tetrachloride or other grease solvent. Always change the sponging cloth so that a fresh area is constantly in contact with the grease. Continue sponging until no trace of grease remains.

What is the best method for cleaning a dust mop? D. S.

After each use, the dust should be removed from the mop by using the suction tool of your vacuum sweeper, if you have one, or by shaking the mop well outdoors. When dust free, hang so that it does not rest on the head.

The head of some dust mops are removable and small enough for them to be washed. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations as to whether you wash it or not. However, in the case of an extremely heavy, large dust mop it is not advisable to wash it, because in this high humidity weather it is very apt to mildew and develop unpleasant odors before drying completely.

We have two rugs—totally dissimilar, which of necessity must be put side by side. They are not worth having dyed professionally, but if dyed a dark blue they would probably go together well enough. Is there any rug dye available for home use? (These are all wool rugs. I have been told they could be dyed successfully.) Even though the results might not be too good, it would be preferable. L. P. W.

There doesn't seem to be any dye on the market for home use on rugs. Of course, there are dyes used for dress fabrics, but to use them to make the heavy wool a dark color, they would have to be boiled into the rug. With home equipment, such an undertaking would be virtually impossible.

I have an old Colonial farm house in southern Maryland, built in 1786, and have found the matter of finishing the floors a very vexatious problem. The floors are original, of hard yellow pine, toe-nailed to the joists. Over the years, due to natural wear and tear, and neglect, they have become rough and have taken on a nondescript color. They should be smoothed, but a plane or sanding machine is out of the question as the nail heads are on the surface, or close to it, and cannot be "set" as they are rusted firmly in place. I am asking suggestions as to : (a) How may the floors be smoothed? and (b) What would be your advice for a new and somewhat lighter finish, taking into consideration the age of the wood, its roughness, and the fact that the boards are extremely hard? D. H. S.

According to a professional floor refinisher who has reconditioned old floors in Georgetown, the nails in your floor can be reset. Because they are probably hand-made nails, it will take a sharp blow, but the rust will not keep them from moving if hit hard enough. The necessity for having to set the nails has probably arisen from repeated sandings which has made the floor thinner. With the nails set, you will then be able to use a sanding machine to smooth and remove discoloration.

When the floor is sanded, for a light finish you could apply a penetrating natural seal and then several thin coats of paste wax to build up a protective coating.

Can you tell me where I could find a sparkler to light gas stoves instead of matches? I haven't seen any for years. H. D. P.

No, I don't know where you could buy one of these now. Any suggestion, readers?

Gay Bedroom Furnishings Make Waking a Delight

By Dorothy Draper

EVERYBODY likes a comfortable bed, a good reading light and an easy chair in a bedroom. But some of us forget that color can turn "just a bedroom" into something that makes waking up in the morning a delight.

One of my favorite bedrooms at the Hampshire House in New York has pine wallpaper, which is rather an unusual idea for a bedroom. A big, bold-patterned chintz with pink flowers, shiny green leaves and a blue ribbon motif on a white background is used for the curtains and the bed. The headboard is of quilted chintz. A large stool at the foot of the bed is covered in the same blue as the ribbon in the chintz. With a green carpet, red leather chair seats, black lacquered furniture with shiny brass hardware and brass lamps with black and gold shades, here is a bedroom that says, "Welcome" to either the man or woman guest.

The color scheme for a bedroom we did for a private client was taken from her favorite flower, lilies-of-the-valley. The walls were pale green. The carpet was shaggy pale green and even the furniture was painted a soft pale green. Hanging shelves were filled with sparkling white china. White fur rugs made snowy patches on either side of the bed. Full white nylon curtains fell from ceiling to floor. The overcurtains and bedspread of plain rough-textured green fabric were reflected in the large mirrored dressing table. With two low bowls filled with lilies-of-the-valley, our client said she felt as if she had captured the eternal freshness of spring within her four walls.

ANOTHER favorite bedroom which we decorated is the one which the Duchess of Windsor occupied at the opening of the Greenbrier Hotel in West Virginia. Dead white walls. Sky-blue ceiling. Powder-blue carpet. White pleated lampshades. White organdy curtains with wide ruffles criss-crossed at the windows, with overcurtains of sky-blue Brazilliance chintz, scattered with tiny flowers. Upholstered furniture slip-covered in the same chintz. On the four-poster mahogany bed, a lovely white tufted bedspread with a heavy fringe and chintz dust ruffles. On the colonial mantelpiece, a delightful old Eighteenth Century clock that held three candles. Why not try one of these suggestions for your own bedroom?

Tension Leads To Fatigue, Poor Appetite

By Ida Jean Kain

Weight gaining is bound to be an uphill climb for the underweight. But don't overdo it, thin girls—relax. It's not just eating too little food that keeps your curves on the minus side, it's wasting calories in nervous tension.

It's difficult to tell which comes first, the underweight or the tension. Not having a robust appetite, it's easy to slight nutrition and lose more weight, or just barely hold your own. A scarcity of fat padding, in turn, puts the nerve endings too near the surface which makes you "high strung and nervous." Being high strung, you're tense rather than relaxed . . . and tension leads to fatigue, which leads to loss of appetite . . . and so it goes . . . second verse same as the first. You wind up a calorie spendthrift.

Stand off and take a detached view. You didn't see it before, but now it's very clear that if you can learn to relax a bit and make an intelligent effort to eat a little more food with each meal, the extra calories will have twice the results.

Ease into relaxing. It would be nice if you could skip off to the lazy countryside. Most of us can't. So try relaxing as you go about your routine activities—try it for one wonderful day. To your own amazement, you'll find that speed and efficiency are not necessarily synonymous. Haste really does make waste. It's the pressure connected with hurrying that works havoc. If you're late for an appointment, anxiety creeps in and impatience and perhaps irritability. The same thing happens when work crowds in. You don't accomplish half of what you have to do during the day, so you worry about it half the night!

Let's start over—get up 30 minutes earlier. Right off you'll rebel—but just try it. Get a feeling of leisure at the beginning of the day—your start sets the pace. Start hurrying and you keep right on even when the necessity is over. You'll never catch up either.

The experts suggest five minutes of relaxing. Stand with feet well apart, toes turned out, then let your jaw drop, limply, and let your chin drop to your chest and your arms go limp—"let go" with your arms each time you exhale—relax the muscles of your face, jaw, chest shoulders—relax for five minutes. Then dress leisurely, eat a good breakfast, and so, serenely to work.

Probably you have to eat lunch in a crowded place, but don't get all worked up waiting in line. Look at the hats around you, smile. Get hep to the fact that it isn't so much what you eat that counts, it's what you digest and absorb. Impatience and tension block digestion. Relax at mealtime and you'll get twice as much good out of your food.

Since fatigue is a potent factor in preventing a gain, lie down before dinner if possible. A 30-minute rest, in a quiet room, can help you to feel like a new person—and you'll enjoy dinner. That may not be possible, but you can get quiet inside.

And at night while going to sleep, try Dr. Harold Fink's suggestion of bidding your interbrain to relax. Coordinate it with rhythmic breathing — inhaling, murmur to yourself, "going to"—exhale, "sleep"—then on the inhale, "the whole"—then exhale, "night through." It works like black magic!

Kitchen Slavery

Good Cook Must Labor For Love

By Jean Meegan

New York, July 2 (AP).—Good cooks are born to slavery. Take that from Dinty Moore, the corned-beef king.

"You can't even make a decent piece of toast," he says, "unless you stay next to the toaster from the time you plug it in until it's finished."

Moore is one of the few first-class New York restaurateurs completely at home in the kitchen. Most of the famous hosts of Gotham's better-known eating houses arrived at their ultimate station, not through the kitchen, but because they were sensational ball players, prize fighters, bartenders, head waiters, or bored with the real estate business.

Moore was a huckster. His competitors have discovered he is marvelously talented and acute about food and its handling. At least three of them have done their best to imitate his methods, buying where he buys.

Food Millionaire

Because Moore admits having made more than three million dollars on food (his competitors say it is closer to five million dollars), his theories are interesting.

"You can't pick out food on the telephone," he advises women friends. "They'll clip you every time. You've got to know food, in your fingers and in your eye."

The lady of the house makes her mistake, he says, by pinching pennies at the market. His guiding principle is "buy the best. It's the greatest economy."

"If anything smokes," he admonishes, "you are cooking too fast. The stove is then like a runaway horse. Turn it down half-way. Chicken, liver or fish, for instance, can't be hurried."

Moore is exacting about baked potatoes. "They've got to be boiled first," he contends, "with about 5 pounds of salt to every dozen potatoes. That sweetens them. Then dry them in the oven on a low fire."

German Recipe for Soup

"After that's strained and noodles added," Moore pronounces it "the finest soup in the world."

The ideal note on which to end a Dinty Moore dinner is apple pie. He charges 75 cents a wedge, but gives the recipe for free.

"Half cook the apples," he advises," in steam, sweetened with sugar. Add a grated lemon rind, the juice of three lemons (for a small family pie) and sugar to sweeten when the pie is in the tin.

"The most important feature is to make a honey by boiling the apple skins in sugar and water. Pour that over the pie before adding the crust."

Clogged Perculator

Coarse salt poured into the coffee holder of the percolator before scrubbing inside and out with a brush will clean out all holes that are clogged up. Hold the container under the hot water faucet and wash coffee deposit and salt away together.

The Kitchen Oilcloth

Put the white oilcloth on the kitchen table with ordinary flour paste instead of tacking it down. It will last longer and stay smoothly in place all the time. Another big help is to purchase brass ends for the corners. They are inexpensive, attractive and will last indefinitely.

A Hot Oven

The reason why pastry must be placed in a hot oven at the start is that it gives the fat no chance to cook out and toughen the pastry. If the pie filling requires long cooking, just keep the oven hot for 10 minutes and then turn down to allow the filling to cook properly.

Retain Its Daintiness

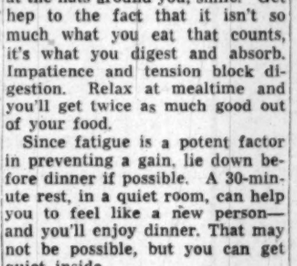
If you are carrying tea or broth to a person ill in bed, place a folded paper napkin between the cup and saucer. If any of the liquid should spill the napkin will absorb it and upon removal the saucer will be dry and the nourishment will appear appetizing.

A Brighter Atmosphere

Do not forget a dark, gloomy room may lower the vitality of the patient. If the light proves annoying to the patient, have a vase of cheerful flowers in a position that may be enjoyed instead of the sunlight.

PETUNIA!

On monotonous days
When I've nothing to do,
I up my morale
With a thorough shampoo!



Whoa there, Petunia! Never, never use a bar of soap directly on your hair or scalp. If you have no commercial shampoo, then shave or dissolve it in hot water.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Cop, Firemen Vie For Revenge in "Feud"

Roger Farquhar tells me that Montgomery County Policeman Leslie B. Thompson has a pretty good sense of humor—and a memory like an elephant.

When Thompson was invited to the Glen Echo Volunteer Fire Department's banquet several months ago he did a little ribbing. He said okay, he'd go, but "you folks down there on the river bank probably won't serve anything but catfish."

At the banquet the Glen Echo smoke-eaters got even. Everybody else got turkey, but Thompson was served (oh, how could they!) catfish.

Policeman Thompson bided his time, and finally managed to get even.

The Sandy Spring Volunteer Fire Department held a carnival the other night, and one of the highlights was an exhibition of fire fighting equipment from all over Maryland.

The Glen Echo department entered a brand new white 1947 Cadillac ambulance, and the force swelled with pride when their entry won first prize.

But imagine their consternation when great crowds of people began storming the ambulance, demanding ice cream.

It took quite some time to get to the bottom of the mystery, and discover that Policeman Thompson had been spreading the word through the crowd that the ambulance was a Good Humor wagon.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Let's take a swing at people who dent your parked car while you're away, and then drive away without leaving a clew to their identity.

I just traded in my old car (which had been scratched and dented by more than one careless driver) and got a brand-new 1948—and it's happened again.

Elizabeth T. Beall
Berwyn, Md.

Dear Mrs. Beall:

I can sympathize with you. I guess the only way to avoid a constant stream of repair bills is to drive a jalopy.

Bill.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

Hey, boss—even if you don't agree that I need a vacation, don't you think the readers are entitled to a rest?

UNMASKED AT LAST

My colleague on the neighboring comic page has finally put the arm on "J. Percival Primrose," who turned out to be Horace Honeycut.

Unfortunately for WOL'S funnyman, his square name is also Horace Hunnicutt—and he's been taking quite a bit of ribbing.

Mike recalls that the name Horace used to get him into an average of one fight per block in his home town of Spartanburg, S. C. By the time his professional travels took him to Knoxville, where somebody christened him "Wild Mike" about a dozen years ago, Hunnicutt was thoroughly sick of Horace and glad to replace it with Mike.

Until last week, when both Honeycut and Hunnicutt were unmasked, the alias worked out very well.

COMPLAINT DEPT.

Stuart Newman of 4604 Addison rd. ne. complains that WWDC's "Musical Crackpot" doesn't know anything about either the Boy Scouts of America or Latin.

The Boy Scout motto is "Be Prepared," and District Liner Newman reports that the announcer translates this into Latin as "Semper Paratus."

That's close—but inaccurate enough to draw a protest from Coast Guardsmen. It means "always ready."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

The Civil Service Retirement System has put out a folder explaining its various benefits. Among other things, it says that a widow's annuity shall end "at death or remarriage, whichever is earlier."

OVERSIGHT

When a reporter asked whether President Truman would welcome General Eisenhower on the Democratic ticket, the Chief Executive said sure. Unfortunately, nobody made it clear which place on the ticket was being discussed.

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (98.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Nobody really knows whether General Eisenhower is a Democrat or a Republican—and the general ain't sayin'. In 1920 Herbert Hoover was in a similar spot: President Wilson had appointed him to a job which he executed admirably, and his popularity was so high that he was mentioned as a possible nominee by both parties. The N. Y. World spearheaded the campaign to make him President, and before the Republican convention Herbert Bayard Swope urged him not to say whether he's a Democrat or a Republican. Swope told him that the fears that the Democrats would nominate him might get him the Rpublican nomination; and if the Republicans didn't nominate him the Democrats would . . . But then Hoover listened to Senator Boies Penrose, the Pennsylvania leader, and on the eve of the convention announced that he was a Republican. He got 5 votes, and the convention nominated Harding.

When Frieda B. Hennock, the first woman to become a member of the FCC, began practicing law, one of her early cases was in defense of a man against whom the evidence seemed incontrovertible. The prosecutor, annoyed at being opposed by a woman lawyer, made a long summation, during which he scoffed at "my sister-lawyer," criticized the feminine tactics of "my sister-at-law," and berated "my "sister-lawyer" for having used her wiles. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty . . . Later, the prosecutor asked the foreman: "How could men say 'Not guilty' with such overwhelming evidence?" . . . The foreman looked at him coldly and explained: "How could a man say such things about his own sister?"

George Raft, who just announced his retirement, still maintains his feud against Edward G. Robinson. They had a dispute, during which they exchanged blows, when they were doing a scene for a movie in which they were co-starred . . . When the two actors were separated by stronger men, Raft stormed off the set citing his complaint: "I won't come back until Robinson stops acting."

Because of President Truman's announcement that he will be the party's nominee, the Democratic treasury is at its lowest ebb. Nobody is contributing, because there can be no expectancy of reward nor even the pleasure of backing a winner. Furthermore, the present campaign fund-raisers can't raise money the way Ed Pauley did in '44 . . . Pauley persuaded Frank Phillips of Phillips Petroleum, to contribute $5000. When Phillips started to write his check he said: "The Hatch Act, limiting these things to $5000, is the finest act ever passed" . . . "And when will Mrs. Phillips give her $5000?" Pauley asked . . . "She already has, to the Republicans," said Phillips. "In our family somebody's got to have a winner."

TIES THAT ARE NOTICED

"All men are created equal"

These prophetic words are written into our hearts and minds as we consider their meaning in the light of recent events. In another sense of the words, "All men are created equal", but needn't look alike. In the sameness of men's apparel, the necktie is the only opportunity for men to look different. The day that the LATTS opened their tie bar was truly "INDEPENDENCE DAY" for Washington men.

Democrat Chiefs See Eisenhower

By Drew Pearson

Up at the president's office at Columbia University a trek of callers has been going in to see Dr. Dwight Eisenhower.

EISENHOWER

Those who call on a university president are not published daily as are callers on the President of the United States. But if the list of these particular callers were published, the present President of the United States might be a little less cocksure about winning the Democratic renomination at Philadelphia.

For Eisenhower's visitors have included such leading anti-Truman Democrats as Senator Olin Johnston of South Carolina, Leon Henderson and Chester Bowles, former OPA administrators; Joseph Casey, former Democratic Representative from Massachusetts, and Leonard Finder, the New Hampshire publisher to whom Eisenhower wrote his famous letter of January 23, withdrawing as a presidential candidate.

All of these have come away with the impression that while Eisenhower is sticking strictly to his letter of January 23 and is not a candidate, nevertheless he could be drafted, if a definite draft movement took place at Philadelphia.

They describe Eisenhower as anxious to be of public service, preferably in a private role, such as Bernard Baruch. They also compare him to Wendell Willkie, who got a liberal education after he retired from private business and began to study public problems. Like Willkie, they say, Eisenhower is learning fast.

Eisenhower Learns

For instance, one of his callers gave him a briefing on how the Taft-Hartley Act was working out. Another showed Ike a chart of the voting records of Democrats as compared with Republicans. Eisenhower was visibly impressed with the poor record of the Republicans, especially on international issues.

All callers have come away with the impression that uppermost in Eisenhower's mind is worry about the future of the country when it comes to foreign affairs, and whether or not Dewey and Warren—for whom he has great admiration—can carry the deadweight of a reactionary GOP Congress around their necks.

Leonard Finder has been in touch with Eisenhower since he received the headline-making letter withdrawing from the GOP race, and is convinced that Eisenhower can be drafted. Recently he wrote Senator Johnston:

"My persistence is, in part, the result of my personal knowledge that he (Eisenhower) will not refuse the (Democratic) nomination if it is offered, even though he is sincere in neither desiring nor seeking it."

Meanwhile the Republican Finder is working with such Democrats as Adolf Berle, former Roosevelt brain-truster; David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers, and Harry Carlson, Democratic national committeeman from New Hampshire.

Final conclusion to be drawn from these various visits is that Eisenhower sincerely and definitely did not and does not want to get embroiled in a political race for delegates, therefore was not and still is not a candidate. He was especially dismayed at the thought of going into a lot of Republican primaries—or even having his name thrown in by others.

He is also loath to oppose his old Commander in Chief, Harry Truman, and Truman's eagerness to get the Democratic nomination makes Ike's position continuingly embarrassing.

On the other hand, Eisenhower has never turned down a call from his country. And having commanded several million young men who had no alternative but to serve their country, he is loath to turn down a call to service now.

Therefore, should there be an overwhelming, genuine demand at the Democratic Convention, or should Mr. Truman himself indicated he wanted Eisenhower to run, then it is the firm belief of those close to Ike that he would not turn down that draft.

Straws in the Wind

Indianapolis—When the Teamsters' International Executive Board met recently, it was decided not to indorse Harry Truman or anyone else. The decision was postponed until the national convention of teamsters after Labor Day. Dan Tobin, though elected a Democratic delegate to Philadelphia, and though attending the four last Democratic Conventions, has withdrawn as a delegate at this time. He leans toward Eisenhower.

Incidentally, Bill Hutcheson, head of the carpenters' union and long a delegate to past Republican Conventions, was not elected an Indiana delegate this year, causing Indiana labor leaders to remark that the Republicans are so cocky they don't think they need labor support.

Brainard, Minn.—When the Minnesota Democratic Executive Committee met recently, they finally voted to send an uninstructed delegation to Philadelphia—which means Eisenhower. Reason is that the committee is controlled by Americans for Democratic Action, who are strong for Eisenhower and Douglas. Democratic State Chairmon Orville Freeman is ADA chairman; Democratic National Committeeman Barry Allen is an ADA member; Democratic National Committeewoman Eugenie Anderson is vice president of ADA; while Democratic State Treasurer John Lyons is also ADA.

Milwaukee—When the Wisconsin Democratic convention met for a routine indorsement of Truman, such a strong pro-Eisenhower demonstration was touched off by one speaker that the chairman abruptly adjourned the meeting, even though no adjournment motion had been made. Flabbergasted, National Committeeman Robert Tehan reported to other Democratic leaders that he had never seen anything like it.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Democratic Boss David Lawrence had a tough time at a State caucus quelling rebellious Democrats who wanted to indorse Eisenhower.
